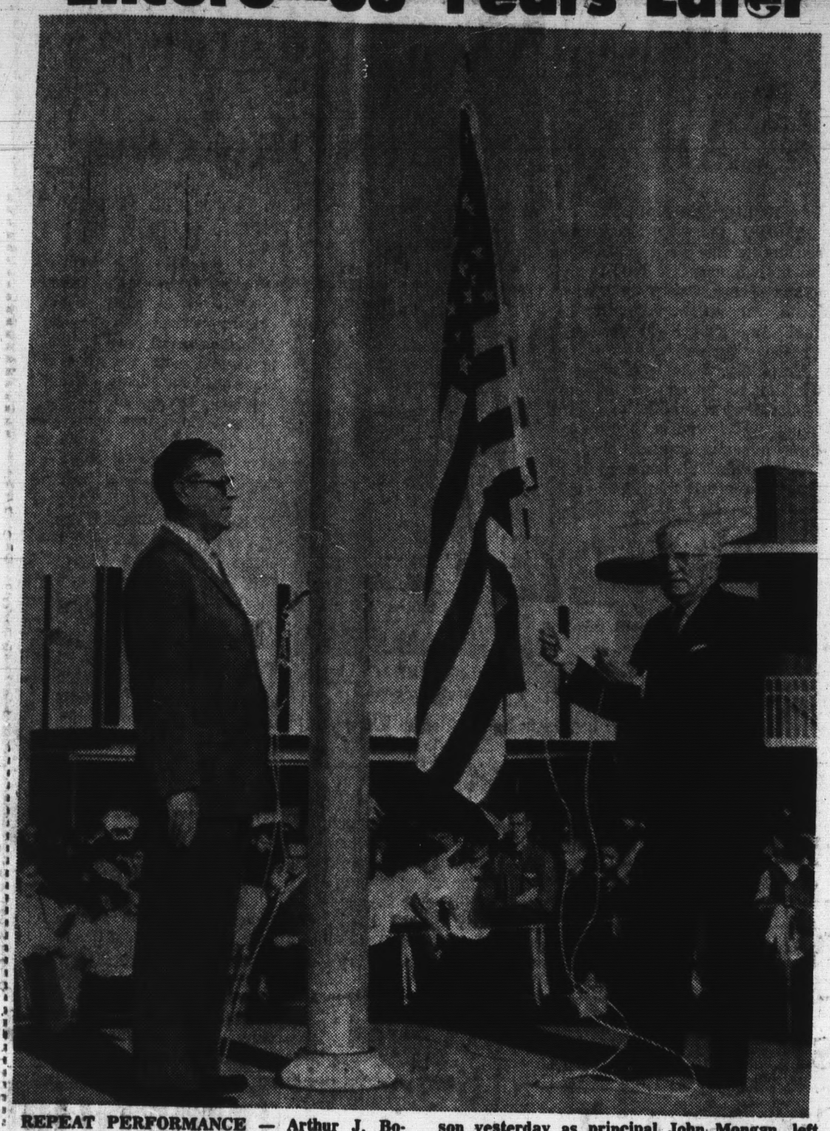
Encore--38 Years Later



REPEAT PERFORMANCE — Arthur J. Bodien, former Daly City councilman and now a member of the San Mateo county Parks and Recreation commission, repeats a pleasant task he first performed 38 years ago when Jefferson High school opened. Here, he raises the flag at the opening of the "new" Jefferson yesterday as principal John Mongan, left, and the student body look on. The school has been rebuilt since classes ended last June. The opening of public school in the north county saw more than 15,500 students return to classes. For a different kind of flag ceremony, please turn to Page 15. (Post-Times photo)

Here's a Look at the Budget

D.C. Tax Stays Same Again

By RON BATES

DALY CITY became a bigger city last year, both in size and in population, as results of a special census and the annexation of the inhabited portion of Bayshore City.

Along with these two bigger aspects came a bigger budget and an increase in the cost of running the city government.

The city council has approved a budget of $3,589,069 while holding the tax rate at $1.48 per $100 assessed valuation for the third consecutive year. The total is a jump of $399,673 over last year.

Daly City also has experienced an increase in assessed valuation, from $57 million to $63 million, and with it 85,059 more tax dollars. The city will now receive $932,423 in secured property taxes.

Second largest money-maker for the city is the water department, which will bring an estimated $744,300.

WHILE THE cost of servicing Bayshore is included in this year's budget, the city will not receive tax dollars from the area. According to state law, Bayshore, with an estimated assessed valuation of $6.5 million, will be added to the city tax rolls next March.

The city will receive funds, however, from such things as motor vehicle in lieu taxes, gas tax funds, and sales taxes.

Approximately 75 per cent, or $319,759, of the increase in expendutures is due to salaries. The city's employment rolls added 35 persons, including 16 persons to service Bayshore City.

Also included in salary expenditures is a pay increase of two to five per cent for current city employes.

The police department will add six policemen and ten firemen to take care of the new area. Also figured in the department budgets are such things as radios, a new police car, changing over of the fire alarm system and increased maintenance on the added equipment.

The Bayshore addition, coupled with increased costs in the older area of Daly City, has pushed fire department expenditures up $147,329 to $514,223 and police department expenditures up $90,083 to 535,328.

THE GOVERNMENT building fund has grown from $24,070 in 1961 to $267,020 in anticipation of a new city hall.

City officials put away $75,000 last year and have earmarked $175,000 this year for the new building.

The present city hall, built in 1939 by the Works Projects Administration, is inadequate for the burgeoning city staff. City officials have indicated the selection of a site will be announced soon.

Two new positions which appear on the budget are those of assistant fire chief and assistant police chief.

The personnel board has approved a statement of duties for the newly created position of assistant fire chief and testing is planned later this month.

The assistant police chief position was vacated three years ago and has not been filled since.

CONTINUED EMPHASIS in capital outlay in the Parks and Recreation department, the street department and in the corporation yard is also planned.

The city will spend $25,000 on tennis courts at both Westlake Park and Jefferson High schools.

Other improvements include bleachers, a softball backstop and golf driving cage at Westmoor park, sprinkler systems at Marchbanks park and M. Pauline Brown playground and landscaping at several other parks.

AN EDITORIAL

'Quality of Mercy'

The Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul are currently engaged in building the new Mary's Help hospital in the Eastmoor section of San Mateo county's Daly City. Having used every available asset of their own, some $2,058,000, besides making a straight bank loan of $1,000,000, and having received state and federal matching funds in the amount of $3,800,000, they were still short $1,500,000 of the total needed for the hospital.

Quite justifiably they turned to the public in hope of making up this sum. Since they started their drive for this money, however, they have only received less than half of the $1,500,000 sought.

But one single donor, Walter Johnson, gave them $150,000. This was an exceedingly generous gift, and the remarks made by Mr. Johnson, a well-known philanthropist, in connection with the gift are well worth repeating.

"I have given away lots of money in my time," he said, "but in all truth none of my contributions has ever given me so much deep-down, heartfelt satisfaction as this gift to these wonderful Daughters of Charity.

"Each of them virtually gives the Lord a blank check on their lives, pledging to support the poor and ailing, regardless of race or religion, without monetary consideration, for the rest of their natural lives. What a joy and deep satisfaction it is to help provide a modern hospital or workshop for people of such selfless dedication and devotion."

These are words that everyone may well ponder and, having pondered, resolve upon emulating by making their own contribution to the building of the new hospital. No project could be more meritorious or more deserving.

The remaining small fund drive being carried on for Mary's Help hospital needs to reach its goal quickly and it is certain that all who contribute will feel the same measure of satisfaction that Mr. Johnson so eloquently expressed.

IN DALY CITY

Building Hits Record Total

An all-time high was set last month in Daly City for the estimated valuation of new construction, according to figures released by the Daly City Building Inspector's office.

A total of 106 permits for construction, estimated to cost $6,410,687 was issued.

The figure exceeded the previous high of $5,609,624, set in May of 1959 when 384 permits were issued.

The unusually high estimated valuation figure is due primarily to construction of the new Mary's Help hospital in south Daly City. The cost of the hospital is expected to be $5,257,000.

Permits also were issued for three commercial buildings, including a $240,000 post office at 3200 [illegible] Boulevard.

August's [illegible] brought the year's total of permits to 970 for construction worth approximately $10,355,780.

Total cost of construction for the 960 permits issued during the entire year in 1962 was $8,557,314.

Building in Daly City had been lagging behind last year's pace until last month. Last year at

Elementary Unit Adopts Health Plan

A new health insurance program for the Jefferson Elementary school district's 450 employes was adopted by trustees last week.

The measure was approved by a 3-2 vote.

Trustees Katherine Mullen and Dr. Donald Calvert asked for more time to study the program, which provides all classified and certificated employes with district sponsored insurance for the first time.

Mrs. Mullen and Dr. Calvert argued that some employes might be penalized in giving up existing health policies with other companies.

The new health and major medical program, written by Associated Indemnity corporation, will cost the district $30,952 in its initial year.

All employes with six months or more service in the district will be included.

In other action, the board accepted the $39,000 Lake Merced overpass. It will provide safe access to Fernando Rivera school for children living in the Olympia section of Daly City.

City Appoints New Assistant

A new face will be seen around the Daly City Hall beginning Monday.

It will be that of City Manager Edward Frank's new administrative assistant, David Rowe, 25, of San Leandro.

Rowe will replace Willis Hawley, who has accepted a political

A Sure Sign Of School

There was no doubt about the opening of school yesterday as far as the Daly City Fire department was concerned.

Promptly at 7:35 a.m., less than an hour before classes were scheduled to resume, an alarm box outside Vista Mar school at Southgate avenue and Bradley drive was pulled.

It was a false alarm, said a fire department spokesman:

"Some kid just wanted to see us. It just signified to us it was the start of school."

Old Headache Westborough Plagues SSF

An old headache of the Daly City council is returning to plague the South San Francisco council.

A private citizen appeared at the South San Francisco city council meeting last week to ask if the city's annexation of the uninhabited portion of Westborough could be put up to a vote of the people.

The citizen was John B. Bradley of 444 Yellowstone drive.

The Daly City council had attempted to annex Westborough in 1961 but the people rejected it in a referendum by a two to one vote.

At last Tuesday's South San Francisco meeting, councilman Andrew Rocca explained that the council members have more time to study the pros and cons of the proposals. He said it is the duty of elected councilmen to decide such matters.

The councilmen indicated they will proceed with the annexation and scheduled a public hearing for October 7.

CHAIN FATALITIES

Two Cities Sued For $200,000

A claim for $200,000 was filed against Daly City and Pacifica last week by the heirs of Richard P. Stump Jr., who along with a companion was killed July 11 when a new motorcycle they were trying out struck a heavy chain stretched across the Old Coast Highway in southwest Daly City.

Lawyers for Stump's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Stump Sr., and Stump's wife, Joan, are claiming negligence.

Roger Smith, with the law firm of Dinnie, Bledsoe, Smith, Phelps, Casecart and Johnson, said another claim will be filed for the heirs of Darrell Coots, Stump's companion.

The claims [illegible] been filed against San Mateo county, the State Board of Control and the governor.

The Daly City council last night rejected the claim and referred it to the county attorney. Fair Oaks, Pacifica is expected to reject the claim, also.

The chain, about two and a half feet off the roadway, barred the entrance to a garbage dump operated by the Daly City Scavenger company. It served to close the highway at that point.

The road technically is still a state highway and has not been abandoned. It is closed beyond the dump, however, because of washouts.

The Old Coast Highway is open from its intersection with Edgemar freeway in Pacifica, north to the dump.

At the time of the accident a

CSM Start Is Delayed Two Weeeks

School will be a little late this year for some 16,000 prospective College of San Mateo students, who last week were granted an extra two weeks' vacation by the San Mateo Junior Colge Board of Trustees because the new College Heights campus isn't quite ready for occupancy.

Classes will start Monday, September 30 instead of the originally scheduled September 16.

Superintendent and college President Dr. Julio L. Bortolazzo told the board that allowance for completion of most campus facilities would be better than having them delayed and confusion.

Those Hills To Be Moved

Earth-moving in a big way will be seen this week by commuters on the Cabrillo coastal highway in Pacifica.

Dino Cassinelli, state resident said the construction workers are making good progress cutting down a hill just north of Sharp Park road and on hauling 200,000 yards of dirt south to the marshlands west of Reina del Mar.

The McNamara company, freeway contractor, expects to begin soon tearing down the big knoll south of Cuyler Chevrolet, possibly this week.

The dirt will be hauled across the highway and used for fill for the expanded area the freeway will need.

Cassinelli said that work is also continuing on underground facilities, sewers and storm drains.

Part of Sharp Park golf course, which borders the new freeway, has been torn up and some of the fairway will be re-routed.

A luncheon by the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce to officially welcome the newly annexed territory of Bayshore City has been postponed from tomorrow until September 19.

Member of Coast Unit Also Critic

A member of the Pacifica safety committee has joined critics of the committee's report to city council, objecting to one of seven recommendations for improving traffic conditions on Alicante drive.

Mrs. Mary O'Connell, in a letter to the council, states she disagrees with the committee majority that a stop sign on Alicante at Alvarado should be changed to make the stop at Alvarado as it enters Alicante.

Mrs. O'Connell said she abstained in the voting by the committee on the report because she did not have the complete background on the situation at the time.

She said the committee members refused to take an item-by-item vote on the seven proposed traffic control measures for Alicante.

Safety committee members were asked to prepare a report for slowing traffic on the busy, winding and steep residential street after a small boy was injured by a speeding auto.

However, when the committee report was presented to the council, 51 residents of Alvarado, Duran and Desvio courts, which branch off Alicante, petitioned the council to reject changing the Alvarado-Alicante stop sign ond

Zone Change Along Geneva Is Requested

The Daly City Planning commission will tackle a large agenda, including its first request from the newly annexed portion of Bayshore City, at its meeting tonight at 8 in the Daly City hall.

The Bayshore item is a request by Primo R. Repetto of San Francisco to establish commercial zoning on property on the north side of Geneva avenue between Calgary and Rio Verde streets.

The commission also will consider rezoning actions requested by Gus Pedemonte of Hillsborough and James Belk, 700 Niantic avenue, Daly City.

Both Pedemonte and Belk are requesting changes from single family dwelling zoning to multiple dwelling zoning.

Pedemonte's property is located at Peoria street and Bellevue avenue. Belk's property is located at Westlake and Niantic avenues.

Karp Properties incorporated of San Francisco is requesting a reduced setback variance to seven feet for property o nthe west side of Edgeworth avenue between Eightieth and Eighty-ninth streets.

A variance in lot coverage from 50 to 52 per cent has been requested by Edward W. Jose, 82 Grandview avenue.

Robert Onorato of San Bruno has asked the commission for permission to construct apartments with commercial use on the ground floor on property on the southeast ocrner of Misson street and Crocker avenue.

Planning Commissioner Antonny Masini, 698 Hillside boulevard, will step down from the commission when it decides on a use permit requested by him to temporarily store cars on property on Hillside boulevard between Bismark and East Cavour streets.

The commission also will act on use permits for three signs.

Pacifica Car Club Request Under Study

When nobody showed up last week to represent the Millords, a Pacifica car club requesting use of the Rockaway Beach sewage treatment lot, the Park, Beach and Recreation commission appointed a two-man committee to investigate the matter.

The youths had asked for permission to build a garage on the city property so they would have a place to work on their cars.

M. E. Glover of Cranham court was granted permission by the commission to fence a city-owned tree-planting easement that he has landscaped.

A study meeting was set for next Wednesday when the commission will meet with representatives of Pacifica baseball leagues and fish and game groups to discuss items of mutual interest.

A Look at The Budget

The second largest increase in expenditures is in materials, supplies and services. The city will spend an estimated $626,933, which is $102,826 over last year.

Other large expenditures are capital outlay, $649,680; debt service, $78,274, and retirement $143,623.

Terra Nova Registers An Argentine Student

By LOUIS McNALLY

AMONG the 2000 students registering this week at Terra Nova High school is Julio Cornaglia of San Carlos de Barilocha, Argentina, Pacifica's first American Field service exchange student.

Yesterday, Julio was scheduled to be introduced at a registration assembly to the Terra Nova student body by their president, James Carr.

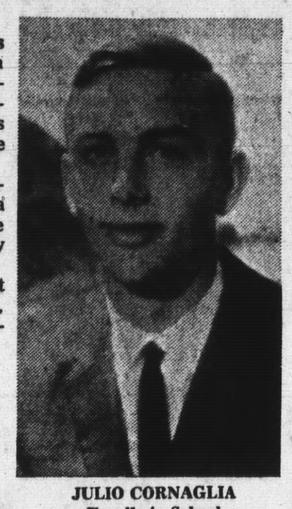
Julio's student sponsors at the school are Richard Ballew, Edward Sohl and David Archibald.

In a conference last week with his advisors, a program of studies was planned for Julio to help him learn as much as possible about this country and observe the American school system in action.

Dr. Harold Tonini, Terra Nova principal, said Julio would be taking civics, United States history, a senior course in American problems and physical education.

At his request, he also will take art, a course he said he was especially interested in and one he has not had an opportunity to study previously in school.

BECAUSE he is still having trouble with his English, Julio will be enrolled in a course in basic English and also, surprisingly, in Spanish 7, an advanced course.



JULIO CORNAGLIA
Enrolls in School

Dr. Tonini said this was suggested by the Spanish instructor as a way of helping him withh is English conversation and grammar since both languages will be spoken by students in the class.

Dr. Tonini said that Julio's schedule will be kept very flexible, and that his advisors will keep an eye on it and help him.

'We want to give him a sound understanding of American life, of how our school system operates and what an American small town is like, in keeping with the aims of the American Fields erive," explained Dr. Tonini.

When Julio returns next year to his own country, he plans to study psychology at the regional university and become a teacher. He likes literature, philosophy and classical music and has won prizes with his poetry.

He is spending the year with Mr. and Mrs. Don Miller, and their two sons, Clint and Donald in their home at 139 Blackburn Terrace on Pedro Point.

Miller is a former member of the Pacifica City council. Clint is a sophomore at the College of San Mateo and Donald is a sophomore at Terra Nova.

After his year in Pacifica, Julio will travel with other American Field Service exchange students on a bus tour across the United States, concluding with a visit to Washington, D. C., and a meeting with the President at the White House.

removing a white line on Alicante.

Mrs. O'Connell said this week she feels the stop sign is an important safety measure, though while travelling Alicante herself she sometimes finds it a muisance.

She pointed out in her letter that the stop sign originally was erected by petition of the residents and should not, therefore, be removed.

W. A. Stumps, of 61 Elder lane, wrote city council he objects to sign boards along the new Cabrillo coastal freeway.

Stumps said it was ridiculous to argue this and at the same time consider restricting "for sale" signs on private property.

He said people were motivated, anyway, to use businesses by their accessibility.

On Pacifica's council agenda for tonight is a report from city attorney Conrad Reisch on the legality of removing "for sale" signs from front lawns.

The measure was urged recently by realtors. A report on the removal of Greyhound bus service from Pedro Point also will be made by Hupf.

City Engineer Al Roberts will report on a problem rocks are causing from grading operations, threatening homes on Terra Nova boulevard.

He also will comment upon the advisability of including Copeland avenue in the Rockaway assessment district.

City Manager Karl Baldwin will discuss a proposal to award outstanding employes, a move seconded by the city's personnel board.

Safeway stores will appeal to the city council a planning commission decision restricting the company from erecting a 39-foot advertising sign. A letter from the Association of Bay Area Governments, recommending the preservation of open spaces, will be read.

caused by having student traffic on the projects.

An engineer's report said that the campus was 97½ per cent complete and progressing at about one per cent a month.

Lagging, however, are the library (86 prr cent), the gyms (90) and museum (90, but no work done in the last few months).

There will be some skimping on vacation times, with Christmas vacation ending December 27 and classes being held on December 30 and 31 before New Year's.

Easter vacation also will be scaled down, this to the final two school days, March 26 and 27, before Easter Sunday. It normally is the full school week long while Christmas is two weeks.

There would be aweek and a half semester finals period in early February. School will end for finals on June 9, a Tuesday and a week later than usual.

Doctor Bortolazzo said that the extra two weeks probably would mean completion of the science and engineering buildings, teaching areas of the fine arts center, gym dressing rooms, all site work except for final landscaping and the student center, which includes the snack bar, cafeteria and student lounge, the latter to be used as a temporary library facility.

State Board to Meet on School Reorganization

A record number of school district organization plans will be acted upon this weekend when the state board of education meets in San Francisco.

The board will also decide whether to grant extensions to 15 counties — including San Mateo county — which have failed to complete master plans for streamlining school districts.

Presided over by Thomas W. Braden of Oceanside, the 10-member board will meet both days at 9 a.m. in room 1194 of the state building annex, 455 Golden Gate avenue. The sessions are open to the public.

Contra Costa, Fresno, Imperial, Marin, Modoc, Nevada, Sacramento, San Diego, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Solano, Sutter and Tuolumne counties are also seeking one-year extensions, while Santa Cruz county is asking for a 90-day delay.

Approval of all the requests is recommended by the state department of education.

A 1959 law required county committees on school district organization to plan for unified districts, which offer programs ranging from kindergarten through at least the twelfth grade under one administration.

The law imposed a September 15, 1963, deadline, but subsequent action by the legislature made it possible for the board of education to grant extensions to counties which had encountered hardships.

Unless the board approves the extensions, the department of education will be required to draw up the plans for the various counties.

There are in California at present an estimated 1583 school districts, of which 155 are unified. Half of the state's enrollment, however, already is in unified districts.

Oceana Plan Is Approved

Financing and plans for an addition to Oceana High school have been approved by the state of California allocation board.

Plans call for the addition of five standard classrooms, five team teaching rooms and two mechanical drawing and typing rooms.

Facilities for homemaking, biology lab and display, science and journalism also are included.

A cafeteria, an electronic learning center and enlargement of gym and locker rooms are projected.

The state has made a $1,158,829 loan available. In addition, $349,888 will be financed from Jefferson Union High school district bond funds.

Grading work will begin this month. Building construction will start in December.

Completion of the project, which will raise the school's capacity from 932 to 1559, is scheduled for late 1964.

Adobe Residents Seek City's Aid

Adobe drive residents, protesting the city's formation of an assessment district for major street improvement, don't want the project killed but think Pacifica has a responsibility for sharing more of the burden they told city councilmen at a special meeting last week.

When there seemed to be a question of whether the majority of Adobe drive property owners were against the petition to form the district, Mayor Harold Feyge suggested that if there was no clear cut decision to go ahead, the project should be killed.

This brought a chorus of protests from the residents.

They argued that they are being taxed too heavily and that because the street is a major thoroughfare, the city should contribute more to the cost.

Officials of the scavenger company could not be reached for comment on the suit.

spokesman for the scavenger company said the firm had posted signs warning of the chain and road closing but that vandals had repeatedly torn the signs down.

Other types of fences were also removed, he said, and only the chain seemed successful in keeping vehicles out.

Open House Fete Has Big Turnout

Nearly 100 representatives of civic, fraternal, club and church organizations in the North county attended a two-hour open house program conducted by The Post-Times Saturday morning.

The program was held in the offices of this newspaper at 30 Park Plaza drive in the Westlake Shopping center.

The program was highlighted by talks given by staff members on: how to prepare publicity releases; newspaper deadlines, and hints on taking and submitting photographs for publication.

Organization representatives also inspected a display of photographs, exhibited as good examples of pictures that had been submitted.

The talks were given by Don Miller, news editor, and Ron Bates, staff reporter.

Miller introduced Monte Dayton, manager of The Post-Time operation; Lois McNally, Pacific acorrespondent for this newspaper, and Mary Lou Lagunas, receptionist.

During the program, publicity kits were distributed to all representatives.

The kits contained suggestions for submitting news articles and photographs to The Post-Times.

Coffee and donuts were served throughout the morning.

He Mistook Glass for Open Door

A seventeen-year-old San Francisco youth suffered severe lacerations of both arms after walking through a plate glass window of a Daly City ice cream parlor last week.

Robert Dondero was rushed to St. Mary's hospital for emergency treatment and released in satisfactory condition.

It was the second freak accident of its kind in Daly City in two weeks.

Dondero was leaving Vern's Ice Cream Shop, 383 South Mayfair avenue, and fell headlong into the large window.

Fire Battalion Chief Wayne Alexander, who responded with the first aid crew, said the youth thought he was walking through an open doorway.

A similar mishap August 23 hospitalized a 14-year-old Daly City girl. She walked through a plate glass door at a liquor store at the nearby Skyline Plaza shopping center.

Mother Hurls Child at Wall

A Daly City mother was placed on a 72-hour hold at County General hospital Thursday evening after she told police she had thrown her two-year-old daughter against a wall four times when the child began crying.

The infant was treated at County General for extensive bruises about the body.

The mother, Lois M. Stokes, 26, of 183 Miriam street, told police she had thrown her daughter, Jennifer, against a hallway wall. She said she had heard voices that had told her to do so.

The mother took the child to her own physician and the doctor reported the incident to Daly City police.

Swimmer Cut By Sting Ray

A 12-year-old Colma boy was cut by a sting ray while swimming off Thornton Beach Saturday afternoon, Daly City police reported.

The youth, James D. Tiedje of 479 D street, was treated at Kaiser Fundation hospital in South San Francisco for leg cuts and released.

Salvage of Hall Mulled

The John A. Blume engineering company of San Francisco was hired last week by the county board of supervisors to find out whether the Hall of Flowers at the county fairgrounds in San Mateo can be salvaged.

Henry Tarratt, county building director, told the board the Blume firm was the choice of himself and of directors of the fair. The work will cost a maximum of $2500.

The huge hall, focal point of the annual fair, was closed for this year's fair after it was discovered that the structure had not been properly built and was in danger of collapsing.

Blume is to determine the extent of the structural inadequacies and advise what will be needed to make the building sound, in the event the board decides to try to salvage the structure.

In that event, a supplemental agreement would be entered into to cover engineering services for that project.

Boy Fractures Leg in Tumble

Tony Cisneros, 14, of 1261 Acacia street, Daly City, suffered a fractured leg when he fell out of a tree at 753 Schwerin street.

All Adult Evening High schools in the Jefferson High school district are registering through September 20.

The four main locations are Jefferson, Westmoor, Terra Nova, and Ocean High schools.

Persons desiring to register in classes should plan to attend the first meeting of each class.

At that time instructors will discuss subject matters as well as fee schedules.

Enrollment will be taken at the time and place of the first meeting

During the second week of the semester, enrollments will be taken in the high school offices between 6:30 and 10 p.m.

All classes are offered to the general public. There are no residence requirements.

Swimmer Leaves Hospital

Michael Cristofani, young Terra Nova swimmer who was severely injured in a diving accident on the Fourth of July weekend at Pedro Beach, returned home this week after nine weeks in Peninsula hospital.

Cristofani, 16, has made a near-miraculous recovery from the accident, which broke his neck and left him completely paralyzed for several days.

He spent four weeks in the hospital flat on his back in traction and two weeks ago underwent an operation to fuse a slipping vertebra in his neck.

He now is out of bed but must wear a harness and brace supporting his neck, head and shoulders.

His grandmother, Mrs. Mary Cristofani, said he will be out of school for three months and that she is arranging for a home teacher for him. He is a senior. The family lives at 249 Reichling avenue in Pacifica.

PERHAPS you've gathered that this columnist is a Giant fan, which gives us the prerogative to criticize the boys as well as to defend them.

It's sort of like the thing where I can call my brother a bum but if you do, I'll murder you.

This is why, whenever we write of the Giants in these columns, it's almost always to critize — unless a detractor of the Giants forces us to defend them, which, you have possibly noticed, we occasionally do.

Besides being a Giant fan, we are also a Yankee fan.

This leads us to the point of the above paragraphs. We have been searching for many months now to find the difference between these two clubs.

We believe that, with a competent double-play combo, the Giants would be about equal to the Yankees, at least mechanically speaking.

But aside from that double-play combination and a little bench and a few other elements that we won't mention because we don't believe in kicking guys when they're down, we have finally come to the conclusion that the basic difference between the Giants and the Yankees is that one can find no reasons to ever criticize the Yankees.

We have never written even a part of a column in criticism of the Yanks and not because we haven't tried.

If there's one thing this columnist can do superbly, it's to criticize. Not always reasonably or wisely, mind you. But you must admit, we've gotten off some dandies when it comes to finding one little thing wrong with someone.

The Yankees, however, are just not conducive to criticism.

They never, as the Giants, are wont to do, beat themselves. They take advantage of all breaks. They can win with pitching or power and are not too proud to bunt when the occasion demands, or steal or hit behind the runner. And, as we noted even before last year's world series, they take pains to keep their best defensive team on the field, because when all is said and done, defense is the big Yankee edge.

Minnesota has more power, Chicago more pitching. But, as the Yanks proved against the Giants last year—especially in that last game—they really beat you with their defense.

We digress slightly, however.

The point is that the Yankees are the only team in baseball that really plays the classical brand of the game. They can beat you any way you name.

No matter who chooses what weapon — pitching, speed, power, inside baseball, defense — the Yankees can beat them at their own game.

We don't even bother rooting for the Yanks any more. That's too boring.

Now, we just admire them.

WATCHING former Giant Ernie Broglio hurl for St. Louis on television's game of the day recently brought back teen-hood memories of the first time we ever saw Ernie.

Mission High school was playing El Cerrito in a pre-season practice game at El Cerrito and Mission had built up a pretty big lead, prompting the El Cerrito coach to bring in his ace just to give him a couple of innings' work before the season began.

He looked like no ace pitcher we had ever seen. His ankle-length knickers, combined with his unshaven face, hatless head and drugstore dark glasses, made him seem more a clown to us than anything else. And we thought we'd have a little fun whacking him around.

Unfortunately, as you may have by now guessed, El Cerrito's ace was Ernie Broglio, and after witnessing several bullets thrown by Ernie, we were grateful that George Wolfman (currently Cal's baseball coach) had decided to bench us for the last few innings.

Much to our relief, we never again had to step onto the same field with Broglio. And we imagine there are a few guys around the National league today who would rather be typing out a sports column than waving a bat at Broglio when Ernie's swift one's workin'.

THEORIES are still being advanced as to the reason or reasons for this year's deflated big league batting averages.

We stated in an earlier column that we felt it was the larger strike zone causing the hit famine.

It seems that most baseball experts discount this theory, many of them feeling that batting averages are down because everybody's going for the long ball — and with it the large pay check.

We wonder, however, how these experts explain the fact that this is also a relatively lean big league year for homers.

Sure, Minnesota's breaking a few records, and the Yanks and Giants always hit a lot of 'em.

But look at the leaders and you'll find that there's a fair chance that neither the American nor National league home run champ will hit 40 and that perennial sluggers like Colavito, Cash, Killebrew, Cepeda, Robinson (Frank), Banks and Mathews may not hit the 30, and in some cases, 20 mark.

No, it has to be more than overswinging. And, judging from the rash of sudden 20-game winners — many of them youngsters who throw that high, hard one — we still say it's the strike zone more than any other one factor.

WE'RE GLAD to see that Stanford's imaginative new young coach, Johnny Ralston, has come up with the only practical solution to what to do when you have three good quarterbacks who can pass and few halfbacks who can run. Put 'em all in the same backfield and see what develops!

Vets Spur Rams' Hopes for Title

Hix Will Pace Air Offensive

By RON BATES

THE WESTMOOR Rams will be aiming for a repeat performance of last year's football season when North Peninsula league action begins this fall.

The Rams, under the whip of Coach Pete Matisi, maintained a clean slate in league play last year to win the first title in the league's initial season of play.

Matisi, in his seventh year of have 14 returning varsity lettermen around which to build what he hopes will be another championship team.

Missing from the lineup will be all-around athlete and Most Valuable Player o fthe NPL last year — Steve Schmuck.

Schmuck, a fanker back will enter the College of San Mateo this fall.

The other half of Westmoor's potent aerial attack, however, Bruce Hix, is back to haunt opponents with his bullet passes, which found their mark 55 out of 118 tries last year.

His passing arm moved the Rams 937 yards, putting him among the top ten prep passers in Northern California.

Hix was the only junior on last year's All-League first team.

Matisi hopes that senior Mark Mallinger will be able to move into Schmuck's vacated spot at flanker back.

"Our offense will be strong wi t hawell balanced running and passing attack," Matisi said. "We have good receiversa nd tremendous runners."

The Ram coach uses a "prototype" offense with two running backs and a tight end, which, in effect, gives the accurate Hix three targets to fire at.

"Hix is possibly the best quarterback in the area," Matisi said, "and he should have another good year."

The small athlete, whose figure belies his power, is also a good runner on the option play.

Other receivers will be seniors Mike Morrison, Jim Fotonas, Steve Milam, and Ken Price.

WORKING behind Hix at quarterback will be Mike Elston, son of Arthur "Dutch" Elston, one of the original San Francisco 49ers and presently a member of the Daly City Recreation and Parks commission.

Also missing from the backfield will be the league's leading runner last year, Mike DeBernardi. But Matisi has two running backs who may fill the bill.

Fullback Dave Mahoney and halfback Ron Baker, who were edged out of last year's All League team, will carry the brunt of the Ram running attack.

Others who are expected to share backfield roles are senior Al Contraras, junior Jim McGowan and sophomore Al Rodrigues.

The Rams will have basically the same line as last year with some key exceptions — notably all league guard Tony Thomas, al league center Mike Pignataro, and tackle Mike Bowers.

Matisi will be counting heavily on returning all league tackle Bob Hanson and junior Dan Hartman to anchor the line.

Also returning will be center Larry Westre, who was injured moved up from the defense. He filled the job so well he received a second string berth on the All-NPL team. Junior Dave Melton will understudy Westre.

The first team guards will be veteran Bob Vantassell, Flip Reade, Mike Ireland, Walt Mallick and Ken Price.

Defense is the biggest question mark for Westmoor this season, Matisi said.

"The defense is untried," he said. 'We lost three day deep men through graduation and we're trying to replace them."

Matisi plans to use Hix, Morrison and possibly John Edenoff in the key deep defensive slots.

The Rams enjoyed "one of the best" defensive seasons in a long time last year, Matisi said.

"The only team that outgained us was Serra High school," the coach said. Serra beat the Rams by two touchdowns in a practice tilt.

The loss to Serra and a 7-6 loss to Riordan were the only season record.
season record.

"If we win the majority of our practice games, we'll know better what we are going to do in league competition," Matisi said.

WESTMOOR'S tough schedule includes Serra, Riordan, Aragon and Burlingame — last year's champion in its league and and Burlingame — last year's champion in its league and 'even tougher this year," according to Matisi.

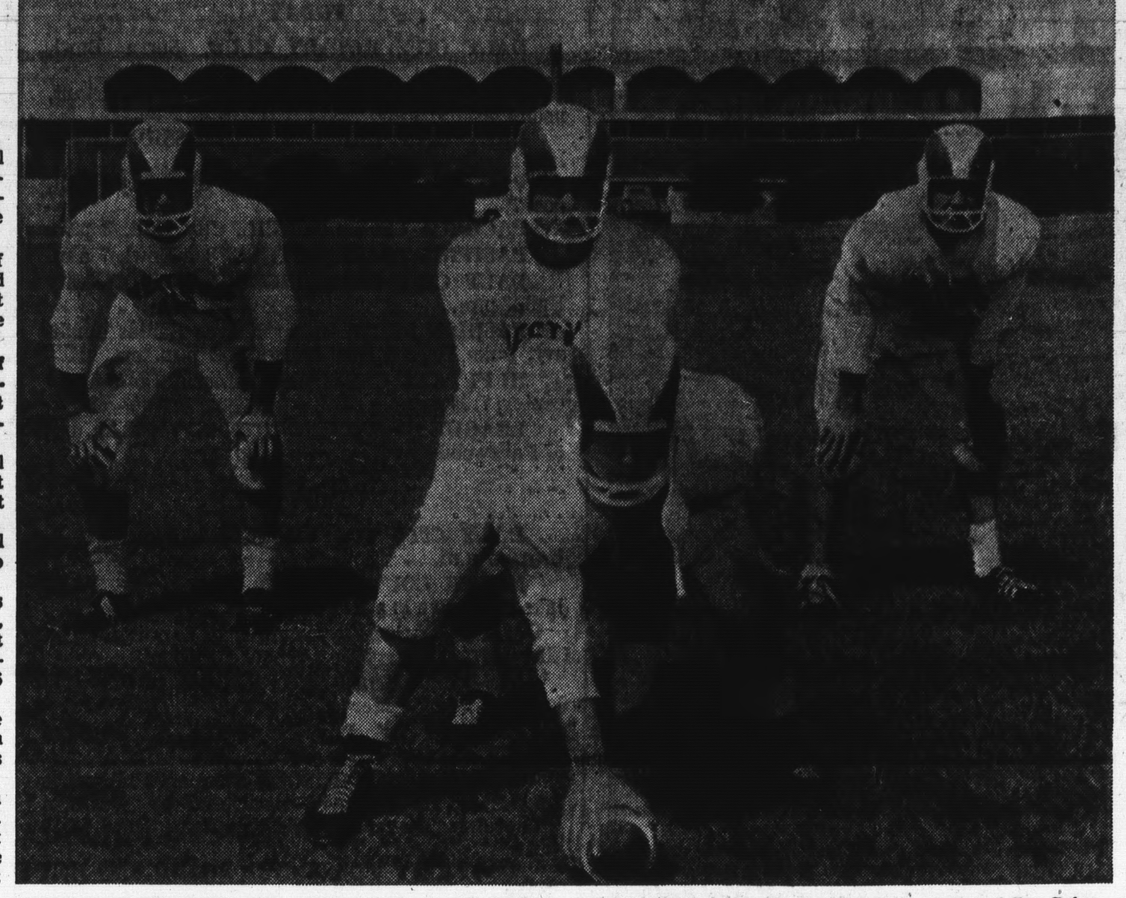
Those expected to see a good deal of action on defense include Ron Davis, Tom Powell, Tim Gerner, John Glebow, Bill Grubstick, and John Lanthier.

Matisi has 49 players suited up for action now and expects fiveo r six more after school begins. He will be assisted in his coaching chores by Bill Carr, in his fourth year, and George McNutt.

Sizing up the rest of the league, Matisi feels that South San Francisco and El Camino should be the biggest obstacles in the Rams' way. Jefferson also will be tough, he said.

"If everything works out for us, we could repeat for the title," Matisi aid. "We have a good team coming back."

Here i Westmoor's schedule:



OFFENSIVE TRIGGER — This quartet of Rams will trigger off the offensive barrage of Westmoor in the upcoming football season. All-League quarterback Bruce Hix will be handing off to hard-running backs Mark Mallinger, left, and Ron Baker, right. Center Larry Westre, who was injured early last sason, is expected to see a great deal of action. (Post-Times photo)

DEFENSIVE ANCHOR — Westmoor will have returning lettermen Bob Hansen, left, and Dan Hartman to anchor the defense during the upcoming North Peninsula league football battles. Hansen made the second team in the All-League selections last fall. This 200-pound plus duo will guide basically the same defensive line as last year. (Post-Times photo)

Game With Jefferson Is on TV

The Westmoor-Jefferson High school football game will again be featured over Channel 7 television this year in the High School Football game of the week.

The Westmoor Jeff rivalry will be telecast November 2.

Ten games will be seen in the weekly series which will be telewut each Saturday morning from 8 to 10 a.m.

Play-by-play sportscaster will be Bud Foster, sports director of KGO-TV. Channel 7 news director Roger Grimsby will be the color commentator.

A weekly feature of the series is the "Prep Player of the Week" award which distinguishes outstanding young athletes selected by performance in the games.

The following is the schedule of high school games, played on the Friday preceding the Saturday telecast, and presented on Chan-

Opening night for the Bay Area Junior 900 Masters league was held last Sunday with a Little Swiss tournament. League competition gets under way next Sunday at 6 p.m. at Broadway Bowl in Oakland with our team meeting the Palo Alto Bowl team.

Daytime league meetings are in full scale operation this week as the ladies make plans to resume bowling after getting the children back in school. Now that the 50,000 mark has been passed in the child-care room, mothers are looking forward to the 100,000 mark.

SEEMS LIKE there was quite a bit of excitement Sunday night as Virginia Wheeler of the Kings and Queens league was lucky enough to have bowled in the Moonlite doubles and have her number called to collect a prize of $106.50. The labor day special No-Tap tournament found three men and three women winning the money. In first place was Jon Marshall with a 300-279-221 for a total of 854 with handicap. Following Jon were Joan McGuinness, second, Dolly Thielen, third, Bill Pond, fourth, and Vic Wong and Wilma Joice, tied for fifth.

It sounded like the Fourth of July again in the Beachcombers, when Muriel Fox's cigarette went off like a firecracker. The noise didn't shake up Ron Jodsaas, though. He rolled a 242-224-614 series. Even desk man, Jim Vlahovich wasn't scared as he had a nice 550 series.

Starting tomorrow at 10 a.m. there will be a ladies' free instruction class. Women interested may come in or call 359-1666. On Saturday at 9:30 a.m., bantams, and at 11:30, juniors, will have free instruction.

Serra Bowl

WITH THE CHANGEOVER from summer to fall schedules at Serra we find ourselves enjoying a period of relative peace and quiet and thus we've decided to take a rundown of new action scheduled this winter rather than reporting on the same leagues we've been talking about all year.

Rich Kondo and the boys of the First Missile Battallion league have joined the flock at Serra and begun gunning down the wood last Wednesday night at the opening of their fall season.

After a photo-finish summer climax which saw Tom Lavin's Junipero Serra apartments team winning the 750 Masters on an 898 last game the boys are eager to take the lanes early Wednesday for the new year. That's a tight league and once again the competition should be razor keen.

The Lutheran Mixed 5's and the Automotive men's handicap leagues are back again this year each with a strength of at least 16 teams and ready to go on their opening nights.

On Monday nights late 18 teams of Lions roared to the lanes to open their fall schedule at Serra. Their first night was last Monday.

The ever dependable Knights of Columbus league led by organizer-secretary Joe Peterson once again will occupy their favorite Wednesday spot at Serra this winter.

THE BANKERS men's handicap has gone to 14 teams this year on Thursdays and the Portola Dads will be back in their regular Friday spot.

Among Serra Scratch leagues we will list the 810 on Mondays, the 855 on Tuesdays, the 835 on Wednesdays, and the 860 late Fridays.

Another "club" league, the Foresters, will field ten teams in the 9 p.m. slot on Thursdays.

Handicap leagues, both men's and mixed, abound again this year at Serra. Some openings are still available Mondays at 6:15 and 9 p.m., Tuesdays at 6:15 p.m., Wednesdays at 6:15 p.m., Thursdays at 6:15 and 9 p.m., and Fridays at 6:15 p.m.

Anyone wishing to bowl at Serra this fall should call WY 2-3444 and ask for further information about league schedules.

They Gained 3rd Place

CSM Tops 'Iron Man' Standings

Strongest team in the new Golden Gate conference this year was College of San Mateo.

The Bulldogs rolled up 67½ "iron man" points to easily defeat second place Foothill, which took the GGC baseball crown to finish with 58½ points.

San Mateo, which already had cinched the overall athletic title before the straggling baseballers had completed their season, finished a game back of Foothill in the tight baseball race (tying with City College of San Francisco for second place).

The "iron man" system, prevalent among other major junior college conferences in the state but not yet officially adopted by the new GGC and Valley loops, awards points to member teams on a 19-8-6-4-2-1 system for placing first through sixth, respectively, in each sport.

San Mateo and Foothill gained points in every one of the nine conference sports while CCSF placed in eight sports to take third place with a 43 point total. The Rams did not field a wrestling team.

CSM held the "iron man" lead all year with a second place finish in cross country and third in football for 14 points in the fall to 12 for Foothill and San Jose.

During winter, San Mateo won the conference wrestling crown and tied with Foothill for fifth in basketball to bring the Bulldog total to 25½ points while Oakland moved into second with 21.

Spring sports brought CSM no worse than second place in every endeavor. San Mateo won the GGC track title, tied for the golf crown with Foothill and placed second in tennis and swimming in addition to baseball.

Final Golden Gate conference 1962-63 "iron man" standings:

School	Points
College of San Mateo	67½
Foothill College	58½
City College of San Francisco	43
Oakland City College	41
San Jose City College	28
Diablo Valley College	21
Contra Costa College	15
Chabot College	5

RALLY SQUELCHED

OLM Leopards Take SM Title

The 1963 San Francisco Midget league championship has been won by a Daly City team for the first time in the history of the championship elimination tournament.

The Our Lady of Mercy Leopards squelched a sixth inning rally by the Ocean View Golds to win, 4-3, in Saturday's title contest at Funston field in San Francisco.

Another Daly City team, the PAL Cardinals, coached by George Pedroni, scored four runs in the last inning to come from behind to defeat the South Sunset A's 8-5 and take third place in the tournament, which began last June with 101 teams in 19 divisions.

The Leopards, coached by Al Antroccli, had been coasting behind the one-hit pitching of Steve Gillmore when the Golds started their rally.

The Golds' Gordon Pillon reached first with a bunt down the first base line.

Gillmore got the next two men on a pop-up and a grounder and the Leopards were one out away from the championship.

He gave up a walk to Frank Jones. Then, opposing pitcher Gary Wilson drove a single to left to drive in Pillon and moved to second when the Leopards tried to nail Jones at third.

Both Jones and Wilson scored when the Leopard's Dan Coffey, anxious to get the final out, dropped Jim O'Donnell's perfect throw to first.

But Gillmore ended the rallyf by striking out Ralph Grant and the Leopards had won their first San Francisco title.

The OLM pitcher was aided by the fielding of third baseman O'Donnell and shortstop Glen Phillips. The two fielders robbed the Golds of several sure hits.

Both O'Donnell and Phillips also contributed with their bats, driving in one run apiece. Phillips had two of the Leopards' six hits.

Center fielder Steve Becker, who powered in the deciding tally with a home run into left field with one aboard in the second inning.

The OLM club and Ocean View will be guests of the Giants at Candlestick park September 21 where they will receive championship and runner-up plaques.

Tanforan to Open 42-Day Racing Card

Noble Threewitt and Wayne Branch, two of the foremost contenders for leading trainer honors at Tanforan this fall, arrived at the San Bruno course last week with divisions of their large stables.

The Threewitt and Branch contingents were included among more than 100 equines checking in for the 42-day session opening tomorrow.

Threewitt, the newly elected president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective association, shipped in 16 runners—eight from Del Mar and a like number from Longacres in Seattle.

Branch, the top trainer at Longacres with 40 winners, tied for training honors at the Bay Meadows spring meeting. He brought in nine head from the Washington course, with the remainder of his 30-horse string scheduled to arrive Friday. He is currently the third leading trainer in the nation and the tops percentage-wise.

Accompanying the Branch forces is jockey Gerald Hunt, who booted home 99 of his mounts at Longacres to distance his opposition.

The former army sergeant was also the leading rider at Bay Meadows last spring.

Teenager Asks . . .

By JOE BAVARESCO

Dear Mr. Bavaresco:

My boy friend and I have been dating for almost a year. I am 16 and he is 18. Last week, my parents were very rude to my boy friend. They told him not to park in front of my house, that the neighbors were talking bad about us. I don't see anything wrong with parking in front of your own home, do you? What is your opinion.

C. B.

Dear C. B.

In this case, you are absolutely correct and your parents are wrong. There is nothing wrong with sitting in front of your own home. Ask your parents if they prefer you park and talk somewhere else, like a dark park or street.

As for your nosy neighbors, pity them; they have nothing else to do but watch you.

It is much safer and makes more sense to park in front of your own home than park somewhere that might lead you into trouble.

Dear Mr. Bavaresco:

I am 19 years old and my girl friend is 17. She is constantly talking wedding and marriage. We have been dating steady for about 6 months. I am not ready to settle down and I don't know if I love her enough, even to think about marriage. What can I do? I don't want to hurt her

J. S.

Dear J. S.

The best favor you can do for each other is to tell her what you just told me. Don't let her go on and on. it will get worse before it will get better.

You say you don't know if you love her. Well, my friend, I can tell you—you don't because if you did love her, you would know. This I can assure you.

Your best bet is to stop seeing her. She has marriage on the brain and unless both people feel the same, this can become a disaster.

Tell her how you feel and if she still wants to date, fine. But if she only wants marriage, get out. That girl is wedding-crazy and it doesn't matter who.

Dear Mr. Bavaresco:

I am just starting high school and I'm really scader. I don't know what it is, or why, but I'm scared. What's wrong?

The Scarecrow

Dear Scarecrow:

You have an old fashion case of stage fright—and it's normal. It's the same feeling every performer gets before going on stage. So take a deep breath and relax, I guarantee, you'll live through it.

For a fine high school career, always be friendly, interested in school activities, neat in your appearance and extra careful to keep your grades up.

Your first year is your most important. Start off right, and make it count.

Teen-agers: If you have a topic or problem you'd like discussed, you may write Joe Bavaresco in care of this newspaper.

Sugar 'n' Spice

By Nell Norton

JUDGING by the crowd at the cook-out in Westlake, many people are interested in outdoor cooking. And the results obtained by the men who competed. The winning recipe was printed in The Post-Times last week. So this column will concern itself with the recipes and foods that the other three winners offered to the judges.

Second place winner was James M. Knight of 1428 Ninth avenue, San Francisco, and here's his recipe:

LAMB SHANKS "SUPREME"

6 lamb shanks, lean
1 dozen fresh mushrooms, medium size
1 green pepper
1 can pineapple chunks (303)
1 cup white wine (sauterne)
½ teas. ginger
2 Tbsp. honey
½ teas. dry mustard
1 pkg. frozen peas

Rub lamb shanks down with olive oil, garlic, lemon, salt and pepper. In a bowl put sauterne, pineapple, ginger, honey and mustard. Put shanks in and leave overnight in refrigerator. Prepare mushrooms and cut peppers into squares.

When ready to barbecue, remove shanks from marinade and place on grill. Make an aluminum dish out of foil and pour marinade into dish, adding peppers and place on side of barbecue, keeping marinade warm but not to boiling point. Baste shanks frequently — cooking time 1½ to 2 hours. After approximately one hour, place frozen peas in foil, adding mushrooms, and cook on top of barbecue for ½ hour. When done, place the rest of the marinade into peas. Make foil boats. Place shank in boat, peas on the side.

SPARERIBS seem to be especially suited to barbecuing. And George W. Miller of 36 Renato court, Redwood City "gussied up" his spareribs with a very special sauce.

SPECIAL CANTONESE SPARERIBS

Select two meaty, thin slabs of ribs, weighing approximately 4½ to 5 pounds. Rub down with a clove of garlic about one hour before cooking. Paint with special barbecue sauce about ½ hour before cooking. Thread ribs on spit and rotisserie, paint with sauce frequently to give an excellent flavor.

Also throw a few beads of garlic into coals for flavor. It is best to place coals in the rear of barbecue and rig up a drip pan of aluminum foil in the front to catch the drips so you do not get any smoker flame-up.

SPECIAL SAUCE

Here is where your flavor comes from. Mix three parts of vodka to 1 part soy sauce; add ¼ teaspoon garlic powder, season salt, coarse ground pepper, onion salt and a few shakes of regular salt.

Gin, white wines or beer may be substituted for the vodka.

AS YOU CAN tell, when men cook and write recipes, they use a little different system than do the usual cook books. In the case of the fourth place recipe you'll see that Bill Jones, 1128 Bancroft way, Berkeley, leaves amounts to your own taste as he only lists ingredients and not measurements. The procedure and cooking time also are left to your own discretion.

Louanne's Datebook

By Louanne Heath

WOULD YOU like to have your portrait painted and presented to you as a gift?

That is the wonderful experience waiting some lucky North county resident Friday night, according to an announcement made by Mrs. Sherri Thomas, vice president and program chairman of the Pacifica Artists' Guild.

According to Mrs. Thomas, artist Eugene Clay will select someone from the audience at the guild meeting and paint a portrait to illustrate his lecture on portraiture, beginning at 8 p.m., in the First Presbyterian church in the Linda Mar section of Pacifica.

Clay, a renowned portrait and landscape painter, has been a professional artist since he accepted his first commission contract at the age of 11. He has studied under Thomas Beggs at the Fine Arts college in Pomona and has also been coached by the famous Millard Sheets.

According to Mrs. Thomas, Clay is making the trip to the Bay Area specifically to address the Pacifica guild, which has interested him since Mrs. Thomas' show in the Fairmont in July.

"I met him when he came to see my exhibit," Mrs. Thomas explained, "and when he identified himself I was thrilled! After we talked for a while, I was so enthusiastic about this man and said I wished it were possible for him to speak to our group and when he said he would be glad to, I was so happy. He was once program chairman of the guild in Pomona and he is aware of the problems and the importance of having a variety of people scheduled to speak."

Clay, whose avocation is inventing, has had a varied career. He began as a painter of landscapes, seascapes and airscapes. The latter he did for plane owners and aircraft companies. Having established a reputation for himself in these fields, he decided to attempt portraits and has been so successful that he has painted a large number of distinguished citizens in Los Angeles, New York, Boston and Atlanta since 1954.

Mrs. Thomas has issued an invitation for everyone interested in art to attend this meeting. Refreshments will be served after the lecture and the completion of the portrait.

SPECIAL guest at the meeting of Pacifica Rotary and in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ewald last week was Sven-Ingar Alexandersson of Malmo, Sweden.

Alexandersson, a cousin of Mrs. Ewald, is manager of AB Alex Traindustrier, one of Sweden's largest lumbering and sawmill operations. He has been touring California, the Northwest and Canada as a part of the Swedish Wood Exporters' associations' group, which has been here to observe forestry, lumbering and milling processes in this part of the world.

According to Mrs. Ewald, Alexandersson, who left Pacific last Wednesday, will visit Canada and then, through special arrangements made by Henry Ewald, the manager of Westlake's Panorama Travel service, he will return to the U. S. A. and pay a visit to Mrs. Ewald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Grant in Minnesota.

Alexandersson, Mrs. Ewald reports, was very favorably impressed with California and plans to return in about two years with his wife and two children.

LIVELY AND interesting conversation is in store for any Daly City woman interested in attending tonight's meeting of the local unit of the League of Women Voters, according to president Mrs. Lionel Farber.

The meeting, the first after a summer recess, will be held in Mrs. Troy Daniel's home at 67 Parkwood drive. Tonight's topic will be a study of the possibility of disarmament, a subject that is sure to generate considerable fervor according to Mrs. Farber.

All meetings of the unit, which has been active in Daly City for 10 years, begin at 8 p.m. and formally adjourn at 10 p.m. However, Mrs. Farber explains, members often continue their discussions during a social hour that follows.

No special invitation to attend is required and any woman interested in thoughtful conversation on political affairs and improving her understanding of a woman's role in our civic and national affairs is urged to attend.

The local unit is a subdivision of the San Francisco chapter of the league. Local members will be on hand next Wednesday at noon when the San Francisco Chapter meets to consider various study topics for the coming year and to hear Mrs. William Irvine, president of the California League of Women Voters, address the gathering.

The meeting will be held in the Women's City club in San Francisco with luncheon beginning at noon and the program scheduled to begin at 12:45 p.m.

The William Wagner family of Westlake is home once more after a glorious vacation in the warm Mexican sunshine.

The Wagners visited Mexico City and enjoyed the seashore at Acapulca before returning to resume the varied active schedule undertaken by Wagner, who is already planning another trip to Mexico this month, perhaps with an eye toward the filming a television program on Juan Batista de Anza. The trip will have to be short, however, as Wagner is due in New York City October 1 to deliver a series of lectures on television techniques.

In addition, papers on various electronics subjects were read during 24 technical sessions held in the Cow Palce's five meeting rooms. To accommodate exhibitors, 620 phones were installed in the booth areas.

The annual show, which alternater between San Francisco and Los Angeles, will be held next year at both the Los Angeles Sports Arena and the Hollywood Park racetrack. No one facility in Los Angeles is large enough to accommodate a trade show of this size.

The next two big events of this type scheduled for the Cow Palace are the 20th annual San Francisco National Sports and Boat show, which last year was seen by over 300,000 visitors, to be held January 31 to February 9, 1964, and the International Automotive show, February 20-23, 1964.

Over 1500 exhibitors are expected at the auto show. Automotive parts for all types of automobiles will be exhibited. European exhibitors will show wares along with the American products.

Between these two exhibit and trade shows, there will be two ice hockey and two basketball games, plus the second annual Golden Gate Invitational Indoor Track met.

Attendance for all 21 show days of February 1964 is expected to exceed 522,000 persons.

Cow Palace Study Set

Because of vastly increased use of facilities, directors of the Cow Palace have engaged the services of the Stanford Research Institute, Palo Alto, to develop a master capital improvement plan for the gigantic exposition convention edifice.

Estimated cost of the study, being undertaken in relation to ace improvements announced March 11 will be $28,000 to $32,000.

The project has three major objectives: an identification of additional land needs, a sketch plan, showing various land use, land area, and a traffic flow plan, and, finally, findings and suggestions with respect to parking, office space, banquet and meeting facilities, dormitories, and arena interior.

Westmoor Whirl

By SHERRY ROSEN

NOVICE NAVIGATORS in the halls of Westmoor High school may take comfort in the thought that their discomfort may well be shared by nineteen new teachers who also entered WHS this fall.

Hailing from New York to Iran, these new mentors have studied at 24 colleges and 12 universities, accumulating 24 degrees among them. Eight are beginning their teaching careers at Westmoor.

Art department welcomes Brooks B. Darrow who studied at Bakersfield college and San Francisco State college. Two years ago, Darrow was known at WHS as a student teacher under Robert Nissen who is currently on a subbatical.

Also teaching art as well as English is Charlotte Lee, a graduate of the University of California in Berkeley. Miss Lee, who numbers fluency in the Cantonese dialect of Chinese among her accomplishments, formerly taught at Vacaville Union High school.

Training students to enter the business world are three new instructors. Mrs. Janne L. Sartor, who teaches general business and business typing, studied at City College of San Francisco and San Francisco State college. Also a student teacher at WHS last year, the former Miss Parker coincidentally worked under Westmoor's William Parker, no relation. He's chairman of the business department.

Maria Loscutoff, who also teaches general business and business typing, was born in Rahmet Abad, Iran. Miss Loscutoff and her family came to this country in 1949, and she has since studied at Sierra Junior college, San Francisco State, and Sacramento State college.

Another newcomer to the teaching field, Miss Loscutoff, whose parents were originally from Russia, speaks Russian fluently and minored in the language at college.

Harold Highfill comes to Westmoor after one year as a teacher of advanced graphic technology at his alma mater, San Francisco State. Highfill saw many parts of the world during his 25 years in the navy, four of which he spent as an instructor.

ENGLISH is the field of several new instructors. Judy Nelson, a native of Minnesota, teaches sophomore and junior English. Miss Nelson studied at Pepperdine college, University of California in Santa Barbara, and Long Beach State college.

Janet Sannar, who formerly taught at Pittsburgh High school, teaches English to upperclassmen. She received her education at University of California in Berkeley and San Francisco State.

Mrs. Sylvia Segal, also a University of California Berkeley graduate, is known mostly to freshman English students.

William Duke, who majored in philosophy as well as English at Santa Clara, University of San Francisco, and San Francisco State, teaches both English and world history.

Newcomer to the foreign language department at WHS is George de Shazer. A native of Omaha, Neb., the new Spanish teacher studied at the University of Kansas and Fresno State college, majoring in Spanish and Latin American history.

Mrs. Marilyn Ammann from Brooklyn teaches homemaking, foods, and clothing this year. Mrs. Ammann studied at Wheaton college in Illinois and Montclair college in New Jersey and has taught in New Jersey secondary schools.

Recent addition to the math department is Jennie L. Gates, a Texan from Houston who majored in French and minored in math at Oakland City college and University of California in Berkeley. Miss Gates, who teaches survey of math and algebra, has taught math as a long-term substitute at Lincoln High school in San Francisco.

Softball is the specialty of Victoria Gall, who teaches girls' physical education to five classes. A native of Kansas City, Missouri, Miss Gall graduated from University of California in Santa Barbara.

Handy with the microscope for classes in biology and survey of science is Theodore M. Scalione, Sr. A graduate of University of California in Davis, Scalione was a half year, long-term substitute at Mission High school in San Francisco.

SEVERAL new social science instructors are at Westmoor this term. Barbara Berg, who studied at the University of Oregon, City College of San Francisco, and University of California, has begun her teaching career at WHS with classes in world history and United States history. Miss Berg has had experience in journalism as a student teacher at Oakland Tech.

From Boulder, Colo., comes Albert Evenich, who regrets to admit that he did not know astronaut Scott Carpenter as a boy. Now teaching social science, geography, and world history at WHS, Evenich studied at Carbon Junior college in Utah and at San Francisco State.

Pacifica's Church-in-the Round Nears Completion

A CROWN TOPS Pacifica's striking new St. Peter's Catholic church, which is nearing completion east of the Linda Mar Valley development. 'Ours Is a Simple Church'

By LOIS McNALLY

NOW NEARING completion is Pacifica's dramatic and unusual church-in-the-round, St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, located east of the Linda Mar valley development.

A spokesman for Mario J. Ciampi, the architect, said last week the church should be ready for use by the beginning of next month. However, a bricklayers' strike this week indicated there may be a postponement.

The pastor, Rev. Francis Reilly, explained that in any case, a formal dedication will not take place this fall since Archbishop Joseph McGucken of San Francisco is due to leave September 24 for Ecumenical council meetings in Rome.

Rising like a giant wigwam from its rustic setting and visible from the coastal highway, the new church will probably bring considerable architectural fame to Pacifica.

There are only a handful of churches-in-the-round in this country, although there is a similar Roman Catholic building in Hawaii.

"Ours is a simple church, but I think in time it will have its impact," said Father Reilly. He explained that while it is unusual, a church-in-the-round is nothing new but represents a very ancient concept.

St. Stephen's church in Rome is built in the round, he points out, and so was the Roman temple, the Pantheon.

St. Peter's church was designed by its architect to take the maximum advantage of its beautiful natural setting. It is bounded on the north and easy by a creek and grove of trees and on the south by a range of high hills.

The frame of the building is a concrete dome, supported by radiating arms of concrete. There is a central opening in the dome from which extends the slender, piercing shaft of the cross.

FATHER REILLY says one of the main advantages of a church-in-the-round is that all of the worshipers can be seated close to the altar.

The only difficulty is seating the congregation so it is not directly behind the priest and the altar.

This is solved in St. Peter's by seating the choir in that section with the sacristy, or priest's robing area, in the rear.

All exterior walls are plate glass with seven-foot wood partitions screening the congregation.

The church actually is sunk about three feet below ground level and between its glass walls and the end of

From within the church, worshippers will be able to look out into the garden and beyond and above it to the trees the concrete supports will be a sunken garden.

Overhead, the interior of the concrete dome is finished with warm fir-stained wood paneling. The pews will be natural finish oak on steel supports. The altar is marble-topped with mosaic sides.

One of the architect's main problems in planning St. Peter's was to build a church on a limited budget that would serve a large number of people.

The new church, which replaces a long-overgrown small building on Adobe drive, will seat 1000 people. Cost of the church building is $216,000 — with $185,400 additional for site work and the rectory.

The long low rectangular rectory and a large parking lot are now being finished between the church and the and of Linda Mar boulevard.

Eventually planned for the 40-acre church site is a complete parochial center, including convent, school and recreational center.

By DON MILLER

"OUR BLINDNESS regarding transportation is virtually complete. we rely on the automobile and the highway, we refuse to recognize the destructive effect of either and our communities have done little to control them.

"At the same time, the concept of an integrated system of transportation, involving a variety of carriers, some of which may not even have been invented, seems to be beyond the grasp of most of our leadership.

"So we spend our billions for cars and highways, vaguely hoping that thereby the old American dream of the open road will someday become a reality.

"But our investment is really in smog, filth, clutter and congestion, which so many of us suffer in eerie silence."

Amen!

That is to say, the civic-minded people who run California tomorrow have hit home again with another incisive report on just where this state of ours is going.

The opening paragraphs of this column were taken from the non-profit educational institute's latest publication, "The Phantom Cities of Tomorrow," a follow-up report to its hard-hitting and widely discussed commentary of last year, "California Going, Going . . ."

That publication, which made planners wince and nature lovers lament, described how the state's supremely attractive resources were being defiled by disorderly, unsightly intrusions of subdivisions, autos, roads, sewage, exhaust and so on.

It coined the word, "slurbs," which it defined as sloppy, sleazy, slovenly, slipshod semi-cities."

Well, the institute's newest report focuses the spotlight on the responsibility of local governments in what so far appears to be a losing battle to preserve California's beautiful natural heritage.

And one of the aspects the report comments on in almost acid terms is the development of highways in this state and the fantastic increase in the number of autos on our roads.

This growth, by the way, boggles the imagination. For the number of cars and trucks we're rolling out on California's roads for the first time each year now nearly matches the total increase in population for each 365 days.

TO EASE the problems created by this ever-growing automobile gargantua, practically every area in the state is involved in some sort of road building program—whether the project is being carried out by the state, the county or the local municipality.

Right here in the North county, roads are being widened, pavement is being patched (again), stop signs is installed, left-turn lanes constructed and freeways being built. (Junipero Serra and Pacifica).

Over-all, it's a massive and seemingly unending battle to keep up with the auto and provide it even greater room than before.

HOW WELL this battle is being carried out, of course, is something else. As you begin driving the length and breadth of California, you begin to realize that some notable advances have been made in efficiently speeding the flow of traffic.

But these advances have been made at an appalling cost in terms of the effect they have had on communities and the incomparable topography of California.

Like a giant scythe, freeways have sliced through the center of historic towns, divided communities, blotted out scenic views, disrupted business life and in some cases created more problems than they were planned to solve in the first place.

The California Tomorrow report comments on some of these highway blunders in what it terms "the large failure" of California's transportation program to date.

"We are wedded to our cars and to a system of roads that make them operative. But at the same time almost all of us must have acquired some doubts about the car, the road and their physical effect on the community," states the report.

"They are useful and marvelous, but it could be also that they are becoming too numerous; that in their very proliferation they carry the seeds of their own destruction and the destruction of entire communities."

AS AN EXAMPLE of how far road planning has strayed in some areas, let's look at Los Angeles with its vaunted (for what?) system of freeways, the most complex in the world.

Los Angeles businessmen originally wanted freeways to bring in the dollars from the city's sprawling, outlying areas to the downtown area.

So what happened? After pouring millions of cubic yards of concrete, the highway builders sat back to watch not the autos streaming toward downtown Los Angeles but to see them roar through and around the city to major regional shopping centers in outlying neighborhoods.

In the 1930s, says the California Tomorrow report, 75 per cent of the retail sales in metropolitan Los Angeles were made downtown.

By 1946 or well into the freeway building program, this percentage had shrunk to 50 per cent and by the start of the sixties, it was down to 18 per cent.

Yet, declares the report, "partly as a result of the building of the freeways, Los Angeles county alone must spend about $4-billion on secondary street deficiencies within the next 20 years—with little real hope for a solution to the problems of congestion or of parking."

NOT ONLY, as you all know, has the state built freeways where they either aren't needed or haven't served the purpose for which they were intended, our government also is guilty of not building roads where they're needed the most.

Everytime we drive through the seat of government in Sacramento, we marvel how our legislators for years looked out upon this metropolis and somehow (apparently) failed to see the monumental traffic jams that clogged and still clog the city every weekend.

As any of you who have tried to thread your way down from the Sierra Nevadas or the gold country on a Sunday evening know, wending your way through Sacramento can be likened to threading a needle with a two-inch hawser.

True, a freeway is planned to speed traffic around Sacramento but why so late?

The answer to all this highway madness, California Tomorrow believes, is the development of new transportation systems and more important, the co-ordination on a regional basis of old and new systems so that they complement and tie into each other rather than compete head on.

And to that, we'll also say a fervent "amen."

Era Ends at Coyote Point

A 16-year chapter of College of San Mateo history was closed Friday afternoon in a ceremony amid the towering eucalyptus trees at the Coyote Point campus.

The scenic, hilly campus by the bay was turned over to the county of San Mateo parks and recreation commission with the presentation of a golden key by CSM Board of Trustees President Robert A. Tarver to James Fitzgerald, chairman of the board of supervisors.

The 29 acres utilized in the education of thousands of students since 1947 will be developed as a recreation area by the county, which purchased it for $651,000.

Dr. Julio Bortolazzo, CSM president, presided at the campus leave taking, which he characterized as "the end of an era."

While admitting that he looked forward to the opening of the spanking new College Heights campus at the end of this month, he nostalgically referred to the Coyote Point campus "with its trailer court atmosphere" and its excellent teaching record.

In his remarks, Tarver said this was a farewell to Coyote Point and Delaware campuses, which had served the college jointly.

He said the college board had striven to obtain the finest teaching and now was adding the best materials and facilities for the new accommodation.

With the increasing enrollment, the saturation point had been reached, he stated.

Dean Emeritus Dr. Harold F. Taggart, who was a faculty member from 1922 to 1958, recalled the history of the college, which has made use of campuses in Central Park, Baldwin avenue, Delaware and Coyote Point.

He said that because of the proximity to big universities, the college had always had the pick of hundreds of the best teaching applicants.

He paid tribute to the friendliness of the late C. S. "Jumbo" Morris, CSM president from 1932 to 1952. In conclusion he urged Dr. Bortolazzo to resume annual alumni dinners.

In presenting the golden key to Fitzgerald, Tarver called on U. S. Simonds Jr., secretary-treasurer of the board of trustees and member since 1942, to stand beside him.

He expressed the hope that Coyote Point would serve the people of San Mateo county as well for recreation as it had done for education.

Fitzgerald said the area would be preserved for future generations.

He said that under instructions from the fire marshal most of the buildings would be torn down, but that the gymnasium and swimming pool would be retained in the master plan.

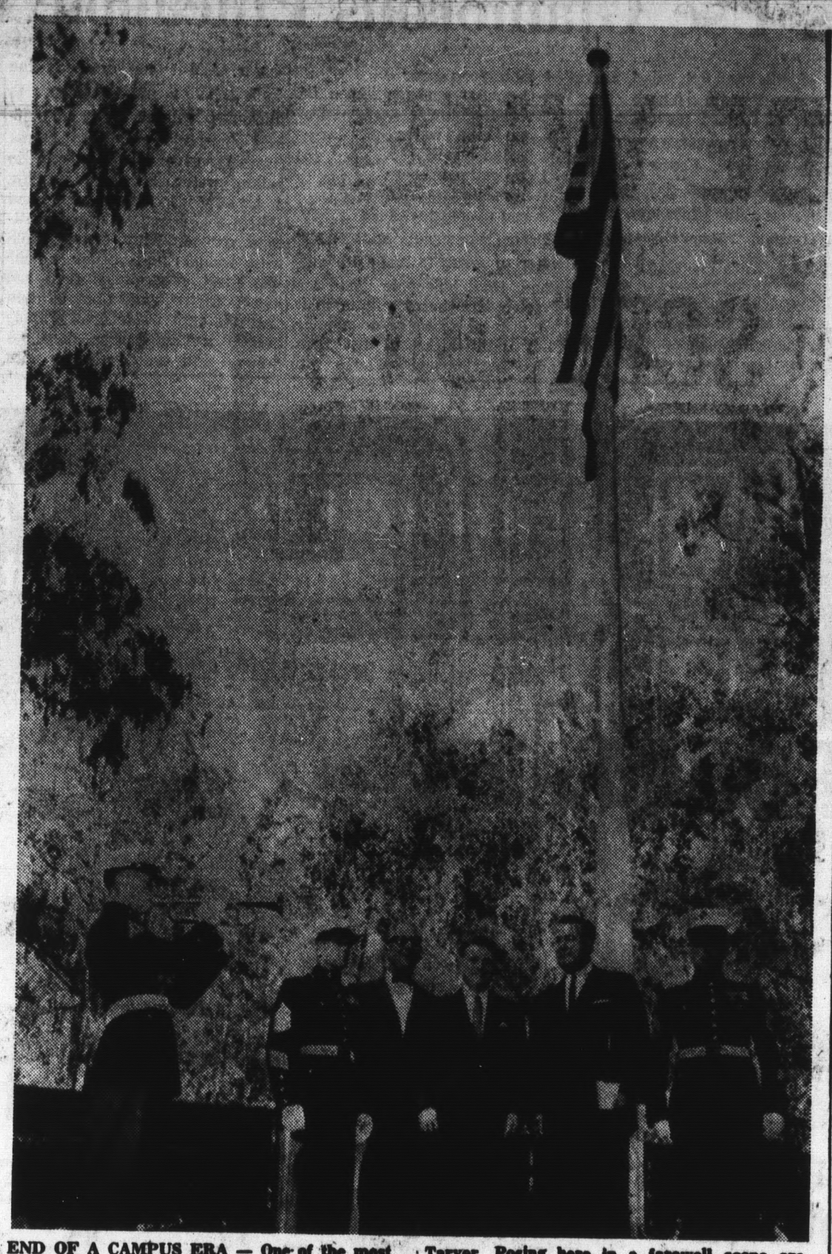
The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Herbert E. Van Meter of the Congregational church of San Mateo.

The flag, which once flew over the Capitol in Washington and which was presented to the college by Congressman J. Arthur Younger, was lowered by a Marine Corps color guard.

The flag was then given to Mark Hein, outgoing CSM student body president, who in turn presented it to Michael Pettis, incoming student body president.

With the sounding of taps, the Coyote Point campus was no more.

Among those present at the ceremony were William J. Hein, first president of the Merchant Marine student body cadet corps and father of the past student body president; County Manager Robert Stallings; members of the board of trustees; Supervisors William Werder and T. Louis Chess; County Parks and Recreation Commission member A. M. Ryan of Burlingame and C. J. Condon of Menlo Park; Ralph H. Shaw, county director of parks and recreation, and San Mateo Councilman Roy Archibald.



END OF A CAMPUS ERA — One of the most scenic campuses in America Friday became part of the county's parks and recreation system when in fitting ceremonies the College of San Mateo property at Coyote Point was turned over to Board of Supervisors Chairman James Fitzgerald by CSM Board President Robert Tarver. Posing here in a farewell scene are, left to right: Marine Corps Bugler L-Cpl. James Witham, Gunnery Sgt. Richard Veit, CSM President Julio Bortolazzo, Supervisors Chairman James Fitzgerald, CSM Board President Robert Tarver, and S.-Sgt. Don Holmberg. (Post-Times photo)

VANDALISM REPORTED

Lloyd Hoffman of 632 MacArthur drive, Broadmoor, reported to Daly City police over the weekend that vandals had stopped up all water outlets and turned on faucets in a house he owns at Werner avenue.

Deny Zoning For Surfside

The Pacifica planning commission has recommended a denial for a rezoning application of the Surfside section on the north end of Pacifica.

Oddstad Homes had requested that 11 acres be rezoned for apartment houses. The area is currently zoned for homes and the commission felt that it should remain status quo.

A section of the Surfside area was rezoned for apartments three years ago by the commission and there are currently 100 units constructed in the area.

Daniels Gets Transit Post

John S. Daniels of 124 Wilshire avenue, Daly City, will become real estate manager for the Bay Area Rapid Transit district by October 1.

He has been the main right-of-way agent in the area for the State Highways Division since 1948.

Daniels will have charge of administering the acquisition of all property for the district, which has estimated it will spend $75 million in the next five years on land acquisition.

Bortolazzo Fights for TV Station

San Mateo Junior College district Superintendent Dr. Julio L. Bortolazzo became a man with a mission last week.

The district board of trustees authorized him to act as its "advocate" to save its new educational Channel 14 from possible assimilation into a system it wants no part of.

The board and Dr. Bortolazzo were ired by a report by the five-member television advisory committee, appointed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown sometime ago to study educational TV in the state.

The report said "the educational program service proposed by the College of San Mateo would serve an area already served by an existing educational television station."

Filed on August 20, the report has been under fire by the local JC board ever since because if its recommendations were followed it would kill the district's chances of a $122,000 grant from the federal government to help get the station going.

The district's application now is pending with the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Since the advisory committee's recommendation of an "already exsting" educational TV station obviously means KQED in San Francisco, most of CSM's rebuttal was aimed at KQED.

Dr. Bortolazzo produced a 61-page sheaf of rebuttal material, including letters of endorsement for Channel 14 from 15 school district superintendents of San Mateo county.

The committee report also said that "there is a distinct need for a supplemental service they propose" by the rapid expansion of educational needs.

This just isn't so, from start to finish, the local district's point-by-point refutation says, helped by newly released surveys of educational television coverage.

"This is just another example of San Mateo county being denied its rightful educational heritage," Dr. Bortolazzo said heatedly.

"The Television Advisory committee is obviously interested only in developing a state system of educational television. It has given no leadership to local districts, but is trying to obstruct other efforts. Meanwhile, we have gone ahead with imaginative planning to try to do some part of this very important job," he went on.

Tour Mapped For Senior DC Citizens

Approximately 45 members of the Westlake Senior Citizens club have toured San Francisco bay aboard a tour boat and returned in time to view a special screening of the soon-to-be-released Warner Bros. picture, "Mary, Mary," according to club treasurer Willard Wagner.

Wagner, long associated with the entertainment industry in the Bay Area met with Don Urquart, manager of Warner Bros. Pictures, and made the necessary arrangements that enabled the club to see the film with California exhibitors who will soon be showing the Debbie Reynolds picture in their theaters.

The trip was part of a continuing summer program of activities planned by the club's executive board, Wagner reported.

Last month, a group attended the Senior Citizens annual picnic in Junipero Serra park, Wagner said.

Members were treated to a picnic lunch of fried chicken, salad, French bread and homemade cookies.

Club members plan to tour Fleishaker zoo, a Sonoma winery, Jack London's home and the General Vallejo home Wagner announced.

Creative Hostesses Use Glamorous Pineapple for Graceful Entertaining

Today's creative hostesses always look to glamorous canned pineapple when they plan elegant salads to grace the buffets, late season picnic meals or candlelit dinner parties. This gorgeous fruit shows it's versatile companionability in the gamut of salad suggestions — from the simple pineapple and cottage cheese variety to stunning molded gelatins.

When the weather is warm, salads of the instant variety are no trouble to fix with canned pineapple, too. A few tidbits or chunks in a lettuc cup provide sunny flavor and pleasing texture to any meal. These, of course, may be decorated with sprigs of watercress or avocado balls and served with a bottled French dressing.

One fun way to serve individual molded salads is on a golden thick slice of pineapple. It provides not only delicious crispness to the softer texture of the gelatin, but also a tangy flavor that's apt to stop the show.

PINEAPPLE FRUIT PLATTER

Pineapple Fruit Platter reveals golden pineapple slices with a bright array of assorted melons, berries and citrus fruits. It is magnificent for buffet service on platter. The lemon honey dressing may be accented with sherry and mint, if desired.

- 1 (1-pound 4½-ounce) can pineapple slices
- 8 watermelon fingers
- 4 slices honeydew melon
- 1 cup grapefruit and orange sections
- Whole strawberries
- Salad greens
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ¼ cup honey

Chill pineapple in can. Drain well. Prepare melons and citrus fruits. Wash strawberries but but leave on stems. Overlap slices of pineapple down center of large glass salad plate on crisp frilly greens. Place water melon fingers on either side. Fill in corners with honeydew slices and citrus fruits. Decorate with whole berries and small frilly greens. Mix together lemon juice and honey. Drizzle over salad. A little sherry wine and chopped fresh mint may also be added to the dressing, if desired. Serve very cold. Makes 4 servings.

RED AND WHITE PINEAPPLE LAYER RING

Contrasty red and white layers of this molded salad make it especially eye appealing. Chunks of canned pineapple and bright red strawberries go into the clear layer. Cottage cheese and whipped cream give wonderful texture to the white layer.

- 1 (1-pound 14-ounce) can pineapple chunks
- Water
- 1 (3-ounce) package strawberry flavored gelatin
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ¾ cup strawberries
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 (3-ounce) package lemon flavored gelatin
- ¾ cup boiling water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- ½ cup whipping cream
- 1-3 cup chopped walnuts

Drain pineapple; add enough water to syrup to make 1½ cups liquid. Heat pineapple liquid and dissolve strawberry gelatin in it. Stir in 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Chill until thick but not firm. Halve berries and sprinkle with sugar. Add 1 cup drained pineapple chunks and berries to thickened gelatin. Pour into 8-inch ring mold. Chill until almost firm. Dissolve lemon gelatin in boiling water. Stir in remaining 2 tablespoons lemon juice and salt. Cool. Blend in sieved cottage cheese. Whip cream; fold with walnuts into gelatin. Pour into mold over almost firm red layer. Chill firm. Unmold and decorate with water cress, whole berries and pineapple slices, if desired. Fill center of ring with remaining pineapple chunks.

PINEAPPLE PATE MOLD

This unusual combination of pineapple and chopped meat is molded in red and green speckled creamy gelatin. A whole range of spicy accents, mayonnaise and sour cream add to its flavor. With salty crackers, it's superb for appetizer or luncheon. It makes beautiful individual molds, too.

- 1 cup chicken broth
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar
- 1 (8½-ounce) can crushed pineapple
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- ½ cup dairy sour cream
- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
- ¼ cup finely chopped green onion
- ¼ cup finely chopped pimiento
- 1 cup finely chopped chicken, turkey or ham

Combine broth, salt, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and gelatin. Heat, stirring, until gelatin dissolves. Stir in lemon juice and undrained pineapple. Chill until mixture thickens and mounds on a spoon. Blend in mayonnaise and sour cream. Chill a few minutes longer, if necessary, then fold in green pepper, onion, pimiento and chicken. Turn into a quart ring mold; chill until firm. Makes about 6 servings.

Under-rating Milk Values?

Like liver, before nutritionists explained its worth, the solids that are not fat in milk may be greatly undervalued, according to T. J. Claydon, dairy manufacturing professor at Kansas State university.

"The solids - not - fat, which means the solids left in milk from which the fat has been removed, are primarily proteins, minerals, B-complex vitamins and lactose. The protein in cottage cheese, for example, is as good nutritionally as the protein in T-bone steak," says Dr. Claydon.

CRAB BISQUE

Crab bisque is only as far as your pantry shelf . . . and it's so easy to prepare with canned dry soup mixes. In saucepan, cook ¼ cup chopped onion in 1 tablespoon butter until tender. Remove from heat. Add a 1½-ounce can cream of mushroom dry soup mix; gradually blend in 2 cups cold water; mix until smooth. Brin to boil, stirring often. Partially cover; simmer 3 minutes, stirring now and then. Add 1 cup milk, a 7-ounce can crab (drained and flaked), 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, dash pepper, and 1 tablespoon sherry (if you like). Elegant fare for 3 or 4.

Flaky Crust, Crunchy Top Gild Peach Pie

Those juicy, blushingly beautiful peaches just waiting for you to pluck from your grocer's fruit array bring some of the season's most scrumptious desserts to your table.

Just picture a fresh-baked peach pie, still warm from the oven . . . marvelously flavored and gilded with a crunchy pecan topping. Best of all, this pie reveals the tenderest, flakiest crust possible, for the recipe calls for lard.

A home economist points out the fact that lard's high shortening power is responsible for these results.

FRESH PEACH PIE—CRUNCH TOPPING

Pastry

1 cup sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 to 6 tablespoons lard
2 to 4 tablespoons cold water

To prepare pastry: Mix flour and salt. Cut lard into flour until crumbs are about the size of small peas. Add cold water, a little at a time, mixing quickly and evenly through flour with a fork until dough just holds in a ball. Use as litte water as possible. Roll to about ⅛ inch thickness and line a 9-inch pie pan, allowing ½ inch crust to extend over edge of pastry.

Filling and Topping

¾ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
4 cups sliced fresh peaches
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
¾ cup pecan halves

Mix together ¾ cup sugar, salt, cornstarch and nutmeg. Add to peaches and mix lightly. Spoon into pastry-lined pie pan. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Combine butter or margarine, brown sugar, orange rind and pecans. Sprinkle pecan topping over peach filling. Return to oven and continue baking 10 minutes or until glaze is set.

Dairy foods are a prime source of protein, essential to human health. Nutritionists point out tha as the general level of health education has improved, per capita consumption of milk protein has risen also.

Milk Relieves Leg Cramps

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, emeritus of the Mayo Clinic and noted newspaper columnist, writes "so many people past middle age keep asking me what to do for leg cramps at night, that I feel compelled to say every so often that the best medicine I have found to keep away my own leg cramps is drinking milk every day. This supplies the calcium (lime salts) which we all need to keep our muscles from getting overly irritable."

Q. What is the name of this cut of Meat?

A. Canadian Style Bacon.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It is the boned and rolled back strip of pork. The meat has been cured and smoked.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. It may be roasted, broiled, panbroiled or pan fried. For broiling, slice the meat at least ½ inch thick. Broil about 3 inches from the heat a total of 8 to 10 minutes. Slices thinner than ½ inch thick should be panbroiled about 6 to 8 minutes.

For roasting a whole piece, place the meat on a rack in an open roasting pan. Insert a meat thermometer into the center of the roast. Roast in a 350° F. oven until the thermometer registers 160° F., allowing about 35 to 40 minutes per pound.

Give Veal A Piquant Olive Stuffing

Veal is delicate in flavor, yet filled with the protein with staying power to satisfy appetites.

Veal can be glamorized in unlimited ways, too. A feature of Veal-Olive Birds illustrates one captivating preparation trick.

"Birds" is the term used to describe meat rolled up for individual servings. In this recipe, the veal is rolled around a crunchy and piquant stuffing of chopped olives, pecans and celery. The meat then cooks slowly in a creamy mushroom sauce accented by paprika.

An authority in the meat field comments that veal steaks and chops are best when braised since veal is very lean and lacking in fat.

Veal-Olive Birds

2 veal round steaks, cut ½-inch thick
1-3 cup chopped pecans
1-3 cup chopped stuffed olives
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon paprika

Cut veal into 6 pieces. Pound to about ¼-inch thickness. Mix together celery, pecans and olives and spoon approximately 2 tablespoonfuls on each piece of steak. Roll as a jelly roll and fasten with wooden picks or tie with string. Brown meat in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Mix together mushroom soup, milk and paprika. Add to veal birds. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes or until done. 6 servings.

Sauce Will Make Dessert Sophisticated

This simple versatile sauce, highlighted with sherry, can change a very plaindessert into a sophisticated one. The sherry—porduced in the warm, fertile valleys of California—adds a rich, nutlike flavor, gingerbread or plain cake, custards or ice cream.

Accompany deseert with small glasses of sherry for additional enjoyment. If any of the wine is left, use it as a subtle flavoring for soups, gravies and sauces—about one tablespoon per cup will produce special flavor quality.

SHERRY CUSTARD SAUCE
(Makes about 1 cup)

3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup hot milk
Few grains salt
¼ cup California sherry
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Beat egg yolks well with sugar. Blend in a little of the hot milk, then combine with remaining milk in top of a double boiler. Cook over hot water until sauce coats a spoon in a thick smooth layer. Slowly beat in sherry. Remove from heat and stir in butter; cool. Serve over baked apples, gingerbread or custards.

NOTE: ½ teaspoon grated orange or lemon rind may be added, if desired.

QUICK DISH

File this for your hungry family. In a shallow baking dish, combine a 5-ounce can boned chicken, a 15¼-ounce can spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese, 2 tablespoons parsley, and dash garlic salt. Top with ½ cup shredded mild process cheese. Bake at 350 degree F. for 20 minutes. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

LEMON LOVELY CAKE, a dessert with a "creative touch," is simplicity itself to prepare.

Lemon Lovely Cake 'Creative'

Lemon Lovely cake, a dessert with a "creative touch" is simplicity itself to prepare, and lives up to its name in appearance.

You may use a cake mix, or, to eliminate hot weather baking, a ready-baked cake. The "creative touch" consist of a prinkling of lemony toasted almonds over the whipped cream topping. These are heated in butter and bottled lemon juice, toasted in the oven, and then dusted with sugar.

For barbecue or late summer or early fall relaxed entertaining, the cake may be prepared and filled in advance. All you need to do prior to serving is top with the whipped cream and toasted almonds.

Try Lemon Lovely soon. Its tart almond tang is sure to bring requests for a repeat performance from your family and friends.

LEMON LOVELY

- 1 10-inch sponge, chiffon or angel food tube cake
- 1¼ cup sugar
- ¼ cup cornstarch
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup water
- 6-8 drops yellow food coloring
- 3 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup bottled lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon bottled lemon juice
- ½ cup sliced almonds
- 2 cups whipping cream
- ½ cup confectioners sugar

In a saucepan mix throughly sugar, cornstarch and salt. Gradually blend in water; stir in food coloring. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil; boil 1 minute. Remove from heat; blend in butter and lemon juice. Cover and cool.

In small pan heat 1 tablespoon each butter and bottled lemon juice until butter melts. Add sliced almonds; stir to coat. Spread in shallow pan; toast in 350 degree oven until golden brown, about 10 minutes. Sprinkle with sugar.

Beat whipping cream until cream begins to thicken; add sugar and continue beating until stiff.

Invert cake and slice crosswise into four equal layers. Spread bottom three layers with lemon filling; stack layers. Frost top and side with sweetened whipped cream; sprinkle almonds over entire cake. Chill thoroughly, about 2 hours, in refrigerator for easy slicing and serving. Cake may be made ahead and held over night in refrigerator.

Yield: 16 servings.

Milk Helps A Common Sense Diet

Nutritionists of the Dairy council of California heartily concur that energy-giving milk and other dairy products should be a part of that pause that de-fleshes as it refreshes. Since dairy products are high in protein, they are an energy-sustainer every weight-watcher should treasure. They further note that common sense dieting, based on fact, not fiction or promotion is back in the spotlight where it rightfully belongs.

With today's knowledge of nutrition, crash diets (except when recommended by a physician), fad diets and other nutritional nonsense are not necessary for losing weight nor for keeping it where it belongs.

Good nutrition and high-calorie count do NOT go hand-in-hand.

We have yet to hear any doctor or nutritionist even suggest, much eat himself into obesity in order to meet proper daily nutritional requirements. They do, however, recommend a happy balance of these two.

Milk and dairy products are the first of the four food groups listed by the United States Department of Health and Welfare as being vital to our nutritional well-being. Drinking or eating milk then is part and parcel of an adequate diet. One knows when snacking on milk and dairy products that top nutrition is being provided along with that satisfying break in the day's activities.

The good nutrition of milk is not by any means to be found only in whole milk or whole milk products. People on low-fat diets recommended by their physicians still require the nutrients found in abundance in milk and dairy products from which all or part of the butter fat has been removed. In other words, "milk-rich snack" does not refer to rich in the sense that it is high in calories but to its being rich in protein, calcium and other minerals, riboflavin and B-complex vitamins as well as other nutrients.

NUTTY FRUIT DUNK

The time of the fruit salad is upon us. It can be a hearty as well as refreshing summer dish when served with this protein rich Nutty Fruit Dunk.

Combine 1 cup (½ pint) cottage cheese with 1 cup applesauce and ¼ cup diced salted almonds. Serve with fresh fruits for dunking or for spooning dunk onto.

How to Cook Short Ribs On the Grill

All whose food budgets are feeling the pinch due to the many outdoor cookery feasts take note!

Beef short ribs ... a low-priced meat cut ... can be adapted to the charcoal grill. Just try this idea and see if all, including the budget, won't be impressed!

Since short ribs are a less-tender beef cut, they shouldn't be cooked over the coals for the total time. . . .

First braise the meat on your range in a tightly covered utensil. In he meantime start the fire so that the charcoal will be covred with a lght gray ash when cooking begins.

When nearly tender place the short ribs on the grill and brush them with your favorite barbecue sauce. Let the meat grill slowly to take on that delicious flavor.

BARBECUED SHORT RIBS

- 3 pounds beef short ribs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup water
- Barbecue sauce

Brown short ribs in own fat. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and add water. Cover tightly and cook slowly about 1½ hours, or until almost tender. Place on grill 3 to 5 inches from glowing coals and brush with barbecue sauce. Turn occasionally, brushing with additional barbecue sauce. Grill 30 to 45 minutes, or until done. 4 servings.

Romano's of Pacifica Presents Selective Menu

ENRICHETTA ROMANO, mother of Pacifica's popular pizza and Italian food expert, Enrico Romano, has parted with many of her family recipes—lending dignity and distinction to the new Romano's dinner menu which made its restaurant debut last week.

Enrichetta

Mama Romano's Manicotti large macaroni stuffed with saute meat, and a dash of Italiano seasoning) is proving one of the most requested dishes—as is her Gnocchi (Italian potato dumpling).

Enrico, a culinary master in his own right adds his artistic understanding of blending food which includes a wide variety of pizzas, soup, salads, pasta, chicken, veal specialties, seafood and choice steaks. After 10 p.m., specials are available. As for desserts, the Romanos have included one of my favorite sweettooth pleasers, Zabaione.

A selective wine cellar—both imports and domestic beverages—and cocktails blended to perfection complete the beverage scene.

The restaurant has been attractively remodeled—inside and out. The atmosphere is Italian all the way—including tunes on the juke box. Romanos new home of "Justly Famous Italian Foods" is open seven days a week, Monday through Thursday, from 4 p.m.; Friday, Saturday, and Sunday from 10 a.m. All food prepared to go. Plenty of free parking space.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD to stay away from the Princeton Inn next Saturday night, September 14, when Milt Tonini will present his first movie. Although not as costly as "Cleopatra," some of the scenes and characters should prove as interesting. The movie reel will include pictures of his last two parties—"Christmas in July," and the Gay 90s spectacular of last Saturday evening. Even Milt's donkey has a leading role. Those who attended these fun times will have a chance to see yourselves as others see you. Don't know whether it will be in color or not, but seems a wide screen would be in order. . . . Baron's Cocktail Lounge, one of the sharpest clubs in downtown San Francisco (Powell and O'Farrell), is currently featuring Marge Brandon, the Miss with a "million dollar" smile and talent to match. .

Milt Tonini

JIMMIE ROMANELLO made a wise move when he enlarged his pop Morocco Room to include dancing. It's been wall-to-wall business ever since the new policy. The Twist contest on Wednesday evening is a "whip"—with customers shifting around like they had a "hot foot." Fun is fun and here is where you'll find it . . . One of chef Tom Delano's special Benjamin Franklin hotel luncheon items is Cinnamon Corn Fritters, maple syrup and pig sausages . . . For the best banjo pickin' music this side of New Orleans, Geary Leason's Big Al's Gashouse is a "gas" any Tuesday, Thursday, or Saturday night. Dean Batchelor is the "picker." . . . The Clozet has the entertainment "locked up" in the vicinity of 12 East Third avenue. Stars galore brighten the bandstand. Robert Pemberton and George Zedlar keep the cash register in tune . . . For an enjoyable Sunday morning breakfast treat, try the Eggs Benedict at Bodee Cominoli's Pioneer hotel, in Woodside . . . Guess the only thing missing in the Lake Tahoe area is a restaurant like Bruno Scatena's Joe's of Westlake. With Bruno being the sportsman and restaurateur that he is, it wouldn't be a surprise if he expanded in that direction . . .

Jimmie Romanello

Special happy birthday greetings to Margaret Williamson, lovely Mrs. of the Burlingame "chicken king" Keith. Labor Day was her natal day—and, believe it or not, Keith took some time off from his busy Chicken and Steak House for the occasion—he only worked 18 hours instead of his usual 22.

Johnny Kan's Hong Kong Cantonese Food

You don't have to take a plane to Hong Kong to find an original Cantonese dinner. It's yours for ordering at Johnny Kan's at the Hyatt House. There are over 80 such dishes listed on the menu. As far as this corner is concerned, any one of the 80 hits the appetite bull's-eye. Also a special family-style dinner priced at just $3.75. Service Tuesday through Sunday in the dining room (dinners only).

Everything is jumpin' these eves at the Bit of England — including live entertainment and Sunday night jam sessions, which get under way at 9 p.m. with Jack Miller's Quartet in musical action. Lunch and dinner seven days a week.

Reservations may be made at the Burlingame Hyatt House Hotel for any one of their many branches throughout the country. Convenient for those traveling from coast to coast.

Preparing Mexican food is an art—and Pancho's "paints" a mighty fine picture in service and steam table display.

New Look at International Inn

The International Inn Restaurant, "home" of Phil Rauscher, offers the ultimate for dining and beverage customers. A new fireplace cocktail lounge, complete with plush, black leather booths and comfortable chairs to match, is a recent added attraction. Ditto, a canopy over the "Inn's" enrance — which will prove it's worth during the rainy season.

A spick and span coffee shop, a sparkling dining room and banquet accommodations offer window viewing of an outdoor garden scene.

DANCING MOSQUITOS—Olga and Mariano, co-featured at Luz Garcia's San Francisco Sinaloa, are billed as the Los Mosquitos and "buzz" around the dance floor in just that fashion in traditional Mexican costumes.

Everything Under One Roof at Caravan Inn

Business at the Mountain View Caravan Inn — entertainment and food-wise — is going at capacity speed. The "All you can eat for $2.25" feature in the Camel Room includes roast beef seven days a week. If you're seeking fun, top entertainment and a delicious breakfast, luncheon, or dinner, Caravan Inn manager, Betty Sedam, suggests the intimate surroundings of the redecorated dining rooms and cocktail lounge.

You'd think the pancake rush would simmer down, somewhat, but not so at Uncle John's Pancake Houses, where the patron count seems to increase. Even with all the competition in this field, the name Uncle John's rates top billing.

Special note to a reader who signs their letter "The Wasp": No, I do not take treatments mentioned in your letter in order to cover the nitery beat. However, the idea is "food" for thought.

This Gal Collects Menus

"Jerri," cute waitress at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant, makes it a hobby to visit other dine out spots on her days off to see if they're up to Vince's par. This little gal is a menu collector — and they come from as far south as Fresno.

Chronicle's Art Rosenbaum, and Nick Gust were involved in a golf game, last weekend, and, according to Nick, if Art had been in putting form there would have been a new partner in Nick's Pacifica restaurant.

J.J. Van Dyke Finocchio M.C.

Comedian J. J. Van Dyke is winning new admirers at San Francisco's Finocchio's Club as emcee of the show during the temporary absence of Producer Lestra LaMonte. Van Dyke is unique among emcees, both in his high good humor and his versatility as an impersonator of what he calls "the delightful foibles of the gentle sex."

Horticulture Unit Formed On Peninsula

A new horticultural society has been formed on the Peninsula to cater to the needs of gardeners whose interests go beyond the garden club. Named "Western Horticultural Society", the incorporation papers were signed by William Schmidt, Schmidt's Nursery, Palo Alto, Charles Burr, California Garden Supply, secretary-treasurer, and John Edwards, Edwards' Nursery, Palo Alto.

Other officers are Ralph Bernstein, Schmidt's Nursery, chairman of meeting place; Albert Wilson, publicity; John Edwards, membership; Its. Uneaka, plant display, and Dick Dunmire, programs.

The new society plans first to get a branch well established in Palo Alto, then to reach out and establish branches in the seven western states, plus Alaska, Hawaii and British Columbia. Dues are $10 a year for single members, $15 for two members in the same household and $25 for a sustaining membership.

The first meeting of the New Western Horticultural Society will be held Monday, September 9, 7:30 p.m. in the Los Altos Methodist Community church, opposite Rancho Shopping Center. Speaker of the evening is P. H. Brydon, director of the Strybing Arboretum. Interested gardeners are invited to attend this first meeting as guests of the new society.

PLANT OF THE WEEK IS "The Bride," a soft, blush pink hybrid hibiscus in the garden of the Paul Nolls, 2900 Summit drive, Hillsborough. Admittedly difficult to grow in this area, the Nolls have hit upon the right location and care.

Hybrid Hibiscus Plant of Week

A hybrid hibiscus from Hawaii, called "The Bride," is The Times Plant of the Week. Growing in the front garden of the Paul Noll home, 2900 Summit drive, Hillsborough, this hibiscus seems to have the location and treatment it demands in California.

The hybrid hibiscus is admittedly difficult to grow in Peninsula gardens. It seems to want more warmth, particularly in winter, and more moisture in the form of rainfall than we can provide. Yet, several Peninsula gardeners do have considerable success in growing them. However, the failures so outnumber the successes that many nurserymen suggest that they be grown as an annual for the pleasure they bring that first year of ownership.

The Nolls planted their hybrid hibiscus in 1961. That winter we had our heaviest snowfall in many years. Our garden kept its snow blanket for four days. The Nolls' hibiscus froze to the ground and they feared they had lost it but spring and warm weather brought new growth. However, it didn't do much in the way of flowering. This summer it has resumed its flowering and though just a little over two-feet high it has as many as nine large, blush-pink blooms open at one time. The crepe-textured petals combined with the delicate color give the flowers a special daintiness.

The hibiscus flower possesses the unusual trait of not wilting for a day after it is picked. Since it lasts only one day anyway and for that day will stay as fresh, without water, as if left on the plant, the flowers can be used for many kinds of floral decoration. When we were in Hawaii, our hotel had a regular flower room where the boys brought big baskets of hibiscus blooms each morning. These were threaded on lender pineapple ribs and arranged in bowls of sand for the guest rooms. They were most effective.

A much easier hibiscus to grow is H. rosa-sinensis, sometimes called "Rose of China." While this is a strictly tropical plant it will endure a few degrees of frost, though it is much better without it. Like all hibiscus it wants a great deal of moisture to make a good appearance. Growers have told us that once this hibiscus is well established it will get along with a surprisingly small amount of water in California. Satisfied with its care and location, this hibiscus blooms all the time during warm weather. It is available with either single or double flowers and in a wide range of colors, from pale yellow, several shades of pink, white and red.

All our authorities suggest that it pays to fertilize the hibiscus regularly and to give it a mulch of leaf mold during the summer months. Also give it lots of sun, a warm wall and good wind protection.

Spring Garden Beauty Will Start in the Fall

By IVA NEWMAN

Labor Day is over, the fall school semester is getting under way and the time has come to do a little planning and planting toward a more colorful and beautiful spring. One of the easiest and surest ways for a gay and colorful spring is to plant bulbs.

Spring flowering bulbs started to arrive in local nurseries just before Labor Day. Experienced gardeners watch for these early shipments as they know the new and unusual varieties are usually among the first to arrive. They do their shopping early as they realize most of the new things are in short supply.

With very little effort, gardeners can have a panorama of color in their Spring gardens by using stately tulips, golden daffodils, fragrant hyacinths, and an assortment of little bulbs, like the crocus which is first to announce "Spring is here" or the very inexpensive grape hyacinth.

The Netherlands Flower-bulb institute has announced that this year's crop of Dutch bulbs is exceptional in quality. Our own Oregon-grown bulbs are exceptionally good this year. Some growers attribute the extra quality to the longer and colder than usual winter but regardless of the reason, home gardeners will find extra value bulbs for planting this fall.

One of the nicest things about planting bulbs is that you are assured that every good bulb will produce a flower. This flower is already formed within the bulb when the grower digs it from the field. In fact, a true bulb is an underground stem with a growing point or bud, surrounded by fleshy layers of tissue containing a stored-up food supply to nourish the growing point or bud until maturity. Sometimes these layers are snugly wrapped about the bud, as with the daffodil and tulip. Or, they may be loosely placed as in the lily. The layers, or scales, as they are called on lilies, are held together at the base by a bit of hardened stem from which roots will form.

The homeowner could be sure of bloom a second and third year if he would give the flowered bulb the same care the grower does. This care consists of leaving all the foliage on the bulb until it matures and falls of its own accord and, of course, some fertilizer to help the plant in its work of storing food for another year. Simply stated, the roots must gather up the raw materials which are transported to the leaves where it is processed into food then, returned to the tissue-layers where it is stored until needed for a new season of growing. Without ample foliage the vital processing of the reserve food supply cannot take place. Keep this in mind when you cut the leaves off bulbous plants for use in flower arranging. However, most bulbs are so inexpensive that some of them can be expendable for such a worthy cause.

Buy Only Good Bulbs

When buying bulbs, keep in mind that only good bulbs produce good flowers. There are good bulb bargains offered by reliable firms. These are usually of two kinds: one a pre-season offer wherein the advance orders permit the dealer to cut down on handling costs and more accurately judge his needs and two, a late season offer to move surpluses. Buyers should check late season bulbs to make sure they are still in prime condition. A third "bargain" is small-size bulbs. Buyers should keep in mind that small bulbs produce small flowers and in the case of tulips and hyacinths they are of very little value.

However, the quality and the value of a bulb does not depend upon size alone. Look the bulb bins over and select a size in a given species or variety that will be capable of producing normal flowers. The next three things to consider are firmness, weight and condition. Firmness pertains to the layers of tissue where the food is stored. These should be plump and fairly hard with no feeling of looseness when compressed in the hand. (Lilies should not be squeezed as they are normally loosely held together.) Weight, the second factor, goes along with firmness in that bulbs with firm layers are heavier. Condition, the third, pertains to the skin or coating of the bulb. This should be smooth, clean and free of injury. Tulips sometimes shed their thin, brown coats quite easily. If this is the case, check the flesh beneath for bruises and skinned places caused by careless handling. Corky spots and little fungus growths are sometimes found on these mishandled bulbs. Cuts and bruises due to mechanical injuries usually heal when dusted with sulphur.

All bulbs should have their basal plate, that bit of hardened stem that holds the layers together, checked. Disease usually makes its first appearance in this area. Trouble here may mean the bulb will rot or disintegrate after it is planted.

Daffodils, in fact the whole family of Narcissus species, are the "best buys" of all bulbdom. This is because these bulbous flowering plants carry on for so many years without need of being replaced. Tulips and hyacinths usually must be replaced every two years. However, we have kept tulips in good bloom for five years by following a good fertilizer program and allowing the foliage plenty of time to mature.

Tulips Popular in England

We were amazed at the great popularity of the tulip in England. On our way into London from the airport every garden, large and small had a planting of tulips. We saw them in pots, windowboxes as well as in clumps and masses. We evidently arrived at the height of the tulip season for the parks had magnificent plantings and a big semi-circular area close to the gates of Buckingham palace must have contained a thousand or two.

We also visited the bulb fields in Holland, but found only the late-flowering varieties in good bloom. Our guide told us stories of the famous tulipomania of Holland around the middle 1600s. Some were historical facts but some were fables with just enough basic truth to make them interesting. Early legal documents show that a single bulb of a rare variety brought $1200 cash plus a carriage with two horses during the mad years of speculation. The tulipomania was not a publicity stunt but it did awaken interest in tulips over most of Europe. This awakened interest brought on such a demand for tulip bulbs that it is credited with starting the great bulb growing industry of Holland.

All bulbs were expensive in the 16, 17 and 18 hundreds. Only the nobility and the very rich could afford to have them in their gardens. A story we must credit to Life Magazine tells that Louis XV of France paid $200,000 for hyacinths so Madame de Pompadour decided to carpet 500 square feet of the Petit Trianon's palace garden with hyacinths. Three thousand of the fragrant bulbs were used
